2. Read the text and answer the questions below.

The Spartans lived in the part of Southern Greece called Laconia. Sometimes people called them the Spartans and sometimes the Laconians. Those people were very brave and their way of life was very simple. One of their rules was that they should always speak very briefly (кратко) using no more words than were necessary. We often call a short answer laconic: that is such an answer as a Laconian could give.

There was a land called Macedonia in Northern Greece. It was ruled by the king Philip. Philip wanted to become the head of all Greece. He had a great army and conquered state after state. But he couldn't conquer Laconia. When Philip came to Laconia he sent a letter to the brave Spartans: "If I conquer your country, I will destroy your great city". After a day or two he was given the answer. When he opened the letter he found only one word in it. That word was "If".

1. Why did the Laconians speak very briefly?

2. What do we call a short answer?

Do you know what the two words taken from Australian native language by Russian and English are? Linguists say that the word "kangaroo" came into English as early as 1770 at the time of the first expedition of Captain Cook. "Boomerang" was taken later – about 1830. These words came into Russian from the Australian native language thanks to the expeditions of Miklukho-Maklay, a famous Russian explorer, whose discoveries made him a legend in his lifetime.

And do you know who planted the first apple tree in Australia? It was the famous Captain Bligh of the Bounty ship. In 1787 some of the crew fought against Bligh's cruel discipline and put him and 18 sailors in a small boat and left them in the sea. The boat crossed 5,793 km of open sea and landed in Australia.

Do you know what "The Red Cross and the Red Crescent"¹ is? It is the international organization that has more than 100 million members in 170 countries. It gives practical help to everybody who needs it, especially wounded² soldiers, during and after wars, epidemics. It also organizes special programmes for young people interested in volunteer work.

It all began in 1859 during a battle between the French and the Austrian armies around the village of Solferino in Northern Italy. More than 30,000 soldiers were killed and 10,000 were wounded. Nobody was there to give help. A 30-year-old Swiss businessman, Henry Dunant, who was travelling across Italy at that time, organized the people from other villages into taking care of the wounded. Then doctors from other cities and countries came and organized hospitals. It was Dunant's idea, described in his book "A Memory of Solferino", to create³ a neutral volunteer organization and to organize an international conference to put

Many years ago there lived a giant Rekin in one of the Welsh towns. Rekin had no friends and was very lonely. Most of all he disliked the mayor of Shrusberry. One day he made up a plan. "I will take a spade full of ground and throw it in the river Severn. The town will be in water and the mayor will die!" Rekin took a spade full of ground and went to Shrusberry.

The giant lost his way and came to Wellington in the evening. It wasn't very far from Shrusberry, but he didn't know that. A shoemaker was going back home from Shrusberry where he had a small shoe shop. The giant asked him, "How can I get to Shrusberry?"

"Why are you going there?"

"I don't like the mayor and the people of Shrusberry. I will throw the ground in the Severn and make the town disappear!"

The shoemaker thought for some time and said, "Shrusberry is very far from here."

"How do you know?"

"I'm going from Shrusberry. Look, how many shoes I used. It's very far." And the shoemaker showed the giant his bag full of shoes. Rekin
