Introduction

The first edition of English Vocabulary in Use: upper-intermediate and advanced was published in 1994. We felt it was time to revise the book for three main reasons. Firstly, technology and other social changes have brought a number of new words and expressions into everyday use. Secondly, we have collected feedback from users of the book all over the world who have made many helpful suggestions that we have been able to incorporate into our new edition. Thirdly, we have access to the Cambridge International Corpus to help inform the choice, presentation and practice of vocabulary items.

What is the same about the new edition?

It retains the features that have made it popular:

- The format of presentation on the left-hand page and practice on the right-hand page.
- It opens with a section on skills for vocabulary recording and memorising.
- It approaches English vocabulary from a range of different angles – looking not just at topics but also at word formation, at words and grammar, at functions like Connecting and linking, at concepts like Time or Distance, at varieties of English.
- It has a complete student-friendly answer key, containing not just the answers but also comments on them where appropriate.
- It contains language and usage notes that are ideal for the self-study learner.
- It contains four symbols to help identify useful common collocations, typical errors, notes about register and when to use a dictionary. (see p.1)
- There is a complete index at the back, listing all the key words and phrases covered.

What is different about the new edition?

In the new edition we have revised each unit to ensure that it is now at upper-intermediate level. We have done this by cutting words that were either too advanced or too easy, replacing them with words more relevant to the level. Frequency data from the Cambridge International Corpus helped inform our decisions here.

We have also clarified our presentation of vocabulary by adding artwork to make the vocabulary easier to understand. There is now more contextualisation of vocabulary and we have also provided more grammar and pronunciation information about the vocabulary we present.

In revising English Vocabulary in Use: Upper-intermediate we have made considerable use of the Cambridge International Corpus of written and spoken English. This enabled us to check that the example contexts for the language presented were the most natural ones. Where necessary, we have suggested different, more frequent, collocations or contexts.

The process of updating the materials has also allowed us to introduce some new units as requested by teachers and students. You will, therefore, find that this edition contains units on: Guessing and explaining meaning (Unit 7), Music (Unit 47) and Computers and the Internet (Unit 58). Unit 17, New words in English has been totally revised to match changes in the language since our first edition.

In this second edition we have reorganised our units in a slightly more logical fashion and have introduced clearer headings for some of the sections. We have also created a new section, Words and pronunciation. In addition, we have made some other changes to the presentation materials and the exercises that we hope will make the book easier for students to use. The addition of colour in this edition will, we are sure, be a popular change.

We very much hope that students and teachers will continue to enjoy working with English Vocabulary in Use: Upper-intermediate and will approve of the changes we have made.

Using this book

Why was this book written?

This book was written to help you to improve your English vocabulary. It will help you to learn not only the meanings of words but also how they are used. You can use this book either with a teacher or for self-study.

How is the book organised?

The book has 100 two-page units. In most units, the left-hand page explains the words and expressions to be studied in that unit. Where appropriate, it gives information about the meanings of words as well as how to use them. The right-hand page checks that you have understood the information on the left-hand page by giving you a series of exercises practising what you have just learnt. Occasionally the right-hand page will also teach you some more new words.

There is a key at the back of the book. It will help you learn more about the words and expressions studied in the unit. Some questions have only one correct answer. Other questions have more than one answer. You will find comments on the answers giving reasons why one answer may be more appropriate than another. You will also find suggested answers for more open-ended questions. These suggested answers are intended to be used as possible examples and are not the only correct answer.

There is an index at the back of the book. This lists all the words and phrases covered in the book and refers you to the units where these words or phrases are discussed. The index also tells you how difficult and unusual words are pronounced. It uses the International Phonetic Alphabet to do this and the symbols you need to know are listed on p.3.

How should I use this book?

The book is divided into a number of sections. Start by working through the first seven units. These units not only teach you some new vocabulary but they also help you with useful techniques for vocabulary learning in general. After completing those units, you might want to work straight through the book or you might prefer to do the units in any order that suits you. You may also like to visit the 'in Use' website at

Key to symbols used in the margins

-  indicates the type of error that students typically make with a word or expression.
-  indicates a note about the language register, for example, whether a word or expression is formal or informal, slang or colloquial, or whether it is more commonly used in a written or spoken context.
-  indicates a common collocation, where words frequently occur together.
-  indicates where students are advised to refer to a dictionary.

What else do I need in order to work with this book?

You need some kind of vocabulary notebook or file where you can write down the new words you are learning. (See Unit 3 for advice on how to do this.)

You also need to have access to a couple of good dictionaries. This book selects the words that are most important for you to learn at your level and it gives you the most important information about those words but you will sometimes need to refer to a dictionary as well for extra information about meaning and usage. Some exercises tell you to use a dictionary; these help to train you in getting the best out of your dictionary. Firstly, you need an English–English dictionary for foreign learners. Good ones are The Cambridge Advanced Learner's Dictionary, the Longman Dictionary of Contemporary English, the Oxford Advanced Learner's Dictionary and the Collins Cobuild English Language Dictionary, for example. Secondly, you will also find a good bilingual dictionary useful. Ask a teacher to recommend a good bilingual dictionary for you. (See Unit 5 for advice on using your dictionaries.) Don't forget that many dictionaries are available on CD-ROM. If you want more information about different types of dictionaries, visit Cambridge University Press's website at

Learning vocabulary – general advice

What do you need to learn?

- 1 How many words are there in English? At least:
a) 10,000 b) 100,000 c) 250,000 d) 500,000
- 2 Winston Churchill was famous for his particularly large vocabulary.
How many words did he use in his writing?
a) 10,000 b) 60,000 c) 100,000 d) 120,000
- 3 How many words does the average native English speaker use in his/her everyday speech?
a) 2,500 b) 5,000 c) 7,500 d) 10,000

a) 50 b) 250 c) 1,000 d) 2,500
- 5 What do you think are the most common 20 words in English?

To summarise some basic facts about English vocabulary:

- The most common words in English are the grammar words which you already know.
- There are many words in English you don't need at all.
- There are other words that you need simply to understand when you read or hear them.
- There are words which you need to be able to use yourself.

Clearly you need to spend most time learning this last group. In the text below underline the words you'd like to be able to use.

NOTE

You probably need only to understand the verb coin in the text, whereas most speakers of English probably need to use and understand words like contact, add and opportunities.

English vocabulary has a remarkable range, flexibility and adaptability. Thanks to the periods of contact with foreign languages and its readiness to coin new words out of old elements English seems to have far more words in its core vocabulary than other languages. For example, alongside kingly (from Anglo-Saxon) we find royal (from French) and regal (from Latin). There are many such sets of words which add greatly to our opportunities to express subtle shades of meaning at various levels of style.

What does knowing a new word mean?

It is not enough just to know the meaning (or meanings) of a word. You also need to know:

- which words it is usually associated with.
 - its grammatical characteristics.
 - how it is pronounced.
 - whether it is formal, informal or neutral (See also Unit 4).
 - Try to learn new words in phrases not in isolation.
 - Write down words that commonly go together. These are called collocations:
 - adjectives + nouns, e.g. rich vocabulary, classical music, common sense.
 - verbs + nouns, e.g. to express an opinion, to take sides.
 - nouns in phrases, e.g. in touch with, a train set, a sense of humour.
 - words + prepositions, e.g. at a loss for words, thanks to you.
 - Note special grammatical characteristics of new words. For example, note irregular verbs, e.g. take, took, taken; uncountable nouns, e.g. luggage; or nouns that are only used in the plural, e.g. clothes.
 - Note any special pronunciation problems with new words.
 - Make a note if the word is particularly formal or informal in character, in other words if it has a particular register.
- 1 How could you write these words in phrases to help you remember them?
a) royal b) dissuade c) king d) up to my ears e) independent (of)
f) get married to someone
 - 2 What grammatical notes would you make beside the following words?
a) scissors b) weather c) teach d) advice e) lose f) trousers
 - 3 What might you note beside the following words?
a) subtle b) catastrophe c) photograph/photographer d) answer
 - 4 What might you note beside the following words about their register?
a) guys b) persons c) people
 - 5 What phrases could you pick out of the text about vocabulary in section A that could be useful to learn?

Can you learn just by reading or listening to English?

You can help yourself to learn English vocabulary not only by studying with this book but also by reading and listening to English as much as you can. Rank each item below from 0 to 4 to describe how important this way of learning vocabulary is for you personally. (4 is the most important.) You can add other items to the list if you wish.

newspapers TV (cable/subtitled) magazines radio e.g. BBC World Service video academic or professional literature cinema fiction comics
the Internet cassettes or CDs (music or spoken word) talking to native speakers

How are you going to plan your vocabulary learning?

- 1 How many words and expressions do you intend to learn each week?
a) 5 b) 10 c) 15 d) more than 15
- 2 Where and when are you going to learn them?
a) on the way to school or work b) before dinner c) in bed d) other
- 3 How often are you going to revise your work?
a) once a week b) once a month c) before a test d) once a year

Learning vocabulary – aids to learning

Learning associated words together

- Learn words with associated meanings together.

Learning words together that are associated in meaning is a popular and useful way of organising your vocabulary study.

- 1 Complete the bubble network for the word CAT. Add as many other bubbles as you like.

If possible, compare your network with those done by your classmates. Add any of their ideas that you like to your own network.

- Learn words with a grammatical association together.
- 2 Here are some groups of words, each of which has a grammatical connection. Can you see what the connection is? What other words could you add to these groups?
 - a) child tooth mouse
 - b) information furniture luggage
 - Learn together words based on the same root.
 - 3 Can you add any words or expressions to these two groups?
 - a) price priceless overpriced
 - b) handy single-handed give me a hand to help

Using pictures and diagrams

- Pictures might help you to remember vocabulary.

- 1 Can you draw any pictures that would help you remember the following vocabulary?

a circle to look a gift-horse in the mouth screwdriver opening words to system under pressure be suspect

- Word trees can be useful.

2 Look at the word tree for holiday. Now complete a tree for school.

- Word forks are good ways of learning adjectives and verbs.

3 Look at complete word forks below. Finish the others.

brilliant unusual	idea great excellent shoot edit direct	a film star in review magnificent breath-taking superb	view

kick hit bounce	a ball

- Bubble networks can be a useful way of writing down phrasal verbs.

4 Look at the example. The base verb goes at the centre of the network and is surrounded by the different prepositions which can be added to the base verb to make a phrasal verb. The final bubble contains an appropriate object or phrase to complete the relevant phrasal verb.

Write your own bubble network for make. Use a dictionary and look at Unit 89.

- Tables can also help clarify collocations (words that are often associated).

5 Look at the following example of a table:

	a car	a motorbike	a train	a horse	a plane to fly					+
to drive	+		+
to ride		+		+

Now complete the following sentences.

- She has always wanted to have the chance to a train.
- Trainee pilots spend a long time learning how to different kinds of planes.
- a motorbike can be very dangerous.

You will do more practice with these and other ways of writing down vocabulary in Unit 3.

Organising a vocabulary notebook

TIP

All the time that you use this book, we advise you to keep a personal vocabulary notebook. There is no one correct way to organise a vocabulary notebook, but it is a good idea to think about possible ways of doing so. This unit gives some possibilities and examples.

Organising words by meaning

Try dividing your notebook into different broad sections, with sections for words for feelings, words to describe places, words for movement, words for thinking, etc. In each section you can build families of words related in meaning, using some of the ways suggested in this unit.

Using various types of diagrams

Words that can be grouped under a heading or a more general word can be drawn as a tree-diagram. (See also Unit 2.)

The dotted lines mean that you can add more words to the tree as you meet them.

A bubble network is also useful, since you can make it grow in whatever direction you want it to. (See Unit 2.)

Organising by word-class

A Spanish learner of English, Angeles, gave us an interview on how she marks word-class in her personal notebook. This is what she said:

'What I have just started doing is to write them depending on if they are verbs or nouns or adjectives or phrases. If they are phrases I write them in red and also the definition. If they are verbs, in black, and blue if they are nouns ... And if I write the Spanish translation I write it in another colour, so it's easy to see ... I draw some pictures too.'

When you find a synonym or an antonym of a word you already have in your book, enter it next to that word.

stop = ^{31:5}cease ('cease' is more formal than 'stop') urban ≠ rural

Exercises

- 3.1 Here is a list of words a Spanish learner of English has made in her vocabulary notebook. How could she improve them and organise them better?

clock - reloj

tell the time - decir la hora

rush - darse prisa

office - despacho

beneath

under

I must rush - tengo prisa/tengo que correr openness

drawy - the room was hot and I got drawy wristwatch - reloj de pulsera

what time do you make it?

next to - junto a/al lado de hands - the minute-hand (hour-hand)

wide-awake (fully awake)

- 3.2 Here is a word-map, a variation on the bubble network. What word do you think should go in the middle?

- 3.3 One learner tested himself regularly with his notebook, covering up the word and trying to guess it from the translation he had written or from any other notes he had made. Here is his system.

- 1 If the notes and/or translation were clear but he could not get the word, he made a small red mark in the margin. Three red marks meant that word needed extra attention and a special effort to learn it.
- 2 If the notes and/or translation could not help him guess the word, then the word got a blue mark. A blue mark meant 'Write more information about this word!'

What is your testing system? Try to invent one if you have not got one, or ask other people what they do. Try your system out and decide if it works.

- 3.4 Making tables for word-classes is a good idea, since you can fill in the gaps over time. What would you put in the remaining gaps in the table?

adjective person

produce

.....

producer

industry

industrial export

Follow-up: Exchange tips on recording vocabulary in a notebook with at least two other people who are learning English or another language.

The names of English language words

The names of basic parts of speech in English

Words relating to nouns

Look at the sentence An artist loves beauty. The word artist is countable, i.e. it has a plural form (artists), but beauty is uncountable. Artist is the subject of the verb as it describes who does the verb; beauty is the object, i.e. what is affected by the verb.

Words relating to verbs

infinitive (go) -ing form (going) past participle (gone) past tense (went)

Go (go, gone, went) is an irregular verb whereas live (live, lived, lived) is regular. Go is also intransitive because it does not need an object, e.g. Has Luis gone? Make is transitive because it is followed by an object – you make something.

Words relating to the construction of words

In the word, irregularity, ir- is a prefix, regular is a root and -ity is a suffix. Thin is the opposite or antonym of fat and slim is a synonym of thin. A word family is a set of words based on one root, e.g. word, wordy, to reword. A phrase does not include a main verb – 'in a word' is an example of a phrase. A sentence has a main verb; it begins with a capital letter and ends with a full stop (or a question mark or an exclamation mark).

Words relating to pronunciation

A syllable /sɪləbəl/ is the minimum sound unit of a word consisting of one vowel and any consonants on either side. There are five syllables in the word 'monosyllabic' and the stress is on the fourth syllable.

Words and their associations

There are different styles of speaking and writing appropriate to different situations. Slang is an extremely informal style; a colloquial style is suitable mainly for conversations, e.g. He's a nice guy. Pejorative words have a negative association. Pig-headed is pejorative whereas determined, which is very close in meaning, is not. Collocation refers to words which frequently occur together, e.g. heavy rain, ginger hair.

Words describing punctuation

.	full stop	,	comma	;	semi-colon	'	apostrophe
-	hyphen	-	dash	!	exclamation mark	?	question mark
()	brackets	" "	inverted commas	ANNE	block capitals

- 4.1 Look at the paragraph about words and their associations in F opposite. Find at least three examples of each of the following:

- 1 nouns
- 2 verbs
- 3 adjectives
- 4 adverbs
- 5 prepositions

Now mark the nouns you've written with a C (countable) or UC (uncountable). Mark the verbs R (regular) or IR (irregular) and T (transitive) or IT intransitive.

- 4.2 Complete the following table.

verb	infinitive	-ing form	past participle define	define	defining	defined mean	mean	meaning	meant

- 1 What is its root, its prefix and its suffix?
- 2 What is its opposite or antonym?
- 3 Has it got any synonyms?
- 4 Name some words that are included in its word family.

- 4.4 Look at all the words in bold (with more than one syllable) in sections E, F and G opposite. In each case mark which syllable is stressed.

- 4.5 Match the following colloquial words with their more formal equivalents in the box.

- 1 chat (verb) 2 loo 3 chap 4 put up with 5 fiddle (noun)

- 1 terrorist / freedom fighter 3 fluent / wordy 5 cunning / shrewd
 2 slim / skinny 4 mean / thrifty 6 generous / extravagant

- 4.7 The words in the box each collocate with one of the following words: noun, verb and colloquial. What are the collocations?

EXAMPLE abstract noun

abstract expression intransitive language regular uncountable

- 4.8 Cover the left-hand page and write the names of the following punctuation marks.

Using your dictionary

Good dictionaries, especially learners' dictionaries, can tell you a lot more about a word than just its meaning, including (among other things):

- Word-class (usually abbreviations n: noun, adj: adjective, etc.), whether a noun is countable or uncountable, and whether a verb is normally transitive (needs an object) or intransitive (doesn't need an object).
- Synonyms and their differences, e.g. mislay and misplace
- Antonyms (opposites), e.g. friend ≠ enemy/foe
- Collocations (how words go together), e.g. living is often used in these collocations: cost of living, make a living, standard of living, do something for a living
- Pronunciation: this will mean learning some symbols which are different from the letters of the English alphabet.

θ	th in thick	ð	th in then	tʃ	ch in church
ʃ	sh in she	dʒ	j in jam	s	s in pleasure
ŋ	ng in ring	æ	a in bad	ɒ	o in top ɔː	o in form	ʊ	u in put	ə	a in about
ʌ	u in up	ɪ	ir in bird

Most other symbols look just like ordinary letters of the English alphabet and their pronunciation is not too hard to guess. Check the table on p.3 if you're not sure.

- Word stress: often shown by a mark before the syllable to be stressed or by bold type, e.g. əd'ventʃər, /wɛs'tɒn/. Make sure you know how your dictionary marks stress.
- Usage: how a word is used and any special grammatical pattern that goes with it, e.g. suggest + clause (not an infinitive) – I suggest you ring her right away.
- Whether a word is used for people and/or things. For example, look at this entry for malignant:

ma·lig·nant /mə'liɡnənt/ adj 1 (of people or their actions) feeling or showing great desire to harm others; malevolent: a malignant slander, attack, thrust. 2 (a) (of a tumour) growing uncontrollably, and likely to prove fatal: The growth is not malignant. (b) (of diseases) harmful to life.
ma·lig·nancy /-nənsi/ n 1 [U] state of being malignant. 2 [C] malignant tumour.
ma·lig·nantly adv.

Don't forget that most words have more than one meaning. In this example, only the second meaning corresponds to the way hairy is used in this sentence:

It was a really hairy journey on the mountain road.

hairy /'heəri/. hairier, hairiest 1 Someone or something that is hairy is covered with hair. as ... a pump child with hairy legs... a big, hairy man... The function of a mammal's hairy coat is to insulate the body. 2 If you describe a situation as hairy, you mean that it is exciting, worrying, and rather frightening; a very informal use. as It got a little hairy when we drove him to the station with less than two minutes to spare.

Exercises

- 5.1 With a bilingual dictionary, try a double search: look up a word in your language; the dictionary may give several possibilities in English. Look up each of those possibilities in the English section of the dictionary to see how they translate back into your language. This may help you to distinguish synonyms.

If you own a dictionary, make a little mark in the margin each time you look a word up. If a word gets three or more marks, it is worth an extra effort to learn it. What other learning techniques are there for dictionaries?

- 5.2 Small bilingual dictionaries often just give three or four translations for a word you look up, without any explanation. Here are some pictures with translations you might find in such a dictionary. Which ones fit in the sentences? You may need to use a monolingual dictionary.

couch = settee imagine rem sofa

boots booties munica
wellingtons pergandue canvas sailing boat ketch harmine dinghy yacht munica

Revising vocabulary

Here is an extract from a book about language learning strategies on the importance of revising in an active way.

Revising ... is especially useful for remembering new material in the ^{new} target language. It involves looking back at what has been studied at different intervals, at first close together and then increasingly far apart. For example, Misha is learning a set of vocabulary words in English. He practises them immediately, waits 15 minutes before practising them again, and practises them an hour later, three hours later, the next day, two days later, four days later, the following week, two weeks later, and so on until the material becomes more or less automatic. In this way he keeps returning to these particular vocabulary words, even though he might be meeting more material in class. Each time he practises these vocabulary words, Misha does it in a meaningful way, like putting them into a context or recombining them to make new sentences. Naturally, the amount of time needed to make new material automatic depends on the kind of material involved.

Revising with this book

When you revise a unit, first read it through. Then look at anything you wrote in your vocabulary notebook, connected with the unit. Then, and most importantly, try to do something different with the new words and expressions in that unit in order to help fix them in your memory. Here are some suggestions:

- Highlight any words and expressions that you had forgotten or were not sure about.
- Look at the unit and choose six words and expressions that you particularly want or need to learn. Write them down.
- Look up any words that you selected in an English-English dictionary. Do these words have any other uses or associations that might help you learn them? Looking up the word, heart, for example, might lead you to heart-broken or to have your heart in your mouth. Write anything that appeals to you in an appropriate phrase or sentence.
- The dictionary can also help you find some other words based on the same root. Looking up the noun, employment, leads you to the verb, employ, to the nouns, employer and employee, and to the adjectives employable, unemployed and self-employed.
- Note the pronunciation of the words and expressions you wish to learn. Try to write them down in phonetic script. Use a dictionary to help you.
- In your notebook, write down the words and phrases from a unit in a different way – put them into a network or a table, perhaps.
- The next day, ask yourself: How much can I remember?
- Test yourself, cover part of a word or phrase. Can you complete the word or phrase?

When you have done all the steps above that you feel will be useful to you, close your book and notebook and remind yourself of what you have been studying. How much can you remember?

Making the new words active

One of the great advantages of revising vocabulary is that it should help you to make the step from having something in your receptive vocabulary to having it in your active vocabulary. Encourage this process by:

- writing the words and expressions you are trying to learn in a sentence relating to your life and interests at the moment.
- making a point of using the new words and expressions in your next class or homework or in some other way.
- keeping a learning diary in which you note down things that particularly interest you about the words you have learnt.
- watching out for the words and expressions you are trying to learn in your general reading of English. If you come across any of them in use, write them down in their context in your diary or notebook.
- writing a paragraph or story linking the words and expressions you want to learn.

What can you remember?

- 1 What do you remember now from the first five units in this book? Answer without looking back at the units.
- 2 Now read through the units again.
- 3 How much do you remember about the units now?
- 4 Choose at least one word and expression from each unit and work through all the suggestions made in B and C above. It may not always be appropriate in your future study to do all the steps in B but try them now for practice.

Some plans for your work with this book

- 1 How often are you going to revise what you have done? (Every week? Every five units?)
- 2 Which techniques are you going to use for revising?
- 3 Now write yourself some notes to remind yourself of when you are going to revise. You might like, for instance, to write revise vocabulary in your diary for the next eight Fridays, if you decided to revise every week. Alternatively you could write REVISE in capital letters, after, say, every five units in the book.

Guessing and explaining meaning

Inferring meaning from context

There are a number of clues which you may be able to use to help you work out the meaning of an unfamiliar word:

The context in which it is used

- Visual clues: a picture in a book or film footage in a TV news broadcast may help you.
- Your own background knowledge about a situation: for example, if you already know that there has just been an earthquake in Los Angeles, then you will find it easy to understand the word 'earthquake' when you hear a news broadcast about it.
- The immediate context (other words around the unfamiliar word): these may make the meaning absolutely clear: 'Suzanna picked one tall yellow gladiolus to put in her new crystal vase.' Even if you have never seen or heard the word 'gladiolus', it will probably be obvious to you from the context that it is a type of flower.
- Grammatical clues in the context: it is not difficult to understand that 'superstitious' must be an adjective in the sentence 'Marsha is very superstitious.' or that 'gingerly' is an adverb in 'Jackie tiptoed gingerly down the stairs.'

Similarity to other words you already know in English

A large number of words in English are made up of combinations of other words. You may never have seen the word 'headscarf', for example, but the meaning is easy to work out from its two components. Units 12-14 will help you improve your skills in understanding how English uses everyday words to build up new concepts.

Structure

A prefix or suffix may give you a clue, for example. Units 8-11 focus on different aspects of word formation in English and should help you exploit those clues in making sense of unfamiliar words.

Similarity to a word you know in your own (or some other) language

If your first language is of Latin or of Germanic origin, you will come across many words in English that resemble words in your own language. However, English has taken many words from many other languages too (see Unit 15). So make use of any other languages you know. But remember that some words are false friends - they sound as if they mean the same but in fact they have a different meaning. (A good dictionary will give lists of false friends for a lot of European languages.)

Explaining unknown words

The following expressions can be useful when you are trying to explain what a word or expression means:

It's (a bit) like (a chair) ...

It's something you use for (painting pictures / cleaning the kitchen floor ...)

It's a kind of (bird / musical instrument / building ...) It must / could be ...

It will not be possible to work out the meanings of all the unfamiliar words that you come across but remember that you do not need to understand every word in a text in order to understand the whole text. When it is crucial to know a meaning, use the clues suggested in this unit and make a guess before checking the dictionary.

Exercises

- 7.1 Look at the following text. Before you read it, see if you know what the underlined words mean.

Which of the underlined words can you guess from the context or using any other clues? First make a guess and then check your guesses in the key.

- 7.2 Use the context to work out what the underlined words mean. Explain them using one or other of the expressions in B on the opposite page.
- 1 Above the trees at the edge of the meadow, a buzzard hangs for a moment on the wind before soaring towards the hills.
 - 2 According to some sources, the water vole is one of the most rapidly declining creatures in Britain and a new survey is now being carried out to determine how serious the threat of extinction really is.
 - 3 Using a large chisel the police broke through the front door and surprised the robbers.
 - 4 We ate a delicious chicken and noodle soup from a big tureen and enjoyed several bowls each.
 - 5 When the soup is ready, ladle it into six warmed bowls.
 - 6 We often used to walk up to the cliff top where we would clamber over the farmer's gate and go right to the edge where the view was better.
 - 7 Some people get really ratty when they haven't had enough sleep.
- 7.3 Use your knowledge of other basic English words to help you work out the meanings of the underlined words and expressions. Rewrite them using simpler words or explanations for the underlined words and phrases.
- 1 It says on the can that this drink is sugar-free.
 - 2 More and more shops now have their own special store cards and offer you a discount if you use one of them.
 - 3 I find Mo a very warm-hearted person.
 - 4 I've been up to my eyes in work ever since I got back from holiday.
 - 5 We walked down a tree-lined street towards the station.
 - 6 The little boys were fascinated by the cement-mixer.
- 7.4 Use your knowledge of prefixes and suffixes to suggest what these phrases mean.

1 to re-direct an envelope	5 my ex-boss
2 uncontrollable anger	6 anti-tourist feelings
3 pre-dinner drinks	7 to disconnect the telephone
4 bi-monthly report	8 undelivered letters

Suffixes

Common noun suffixes

-er /ə/ is used for the person who does an activity, e.g. writer, painter, worker, shopper, teacher.

You can use -er with a wide range of verbs to make them into nouns.

Sometimes the -er suffix is written as -or (it is still pronounced /ə/). It is worth making a special list of these as you meet them, e.g. actor, operator, sailor, supervisor.

-er/-or are also used for things which do a particular job, e.g. pencil-sharpener, bottle-opener, grater, projector.

-er and -ee (pronounced /i:/) can contrast with each other meaning 'person who does something' (-er) and 'person who receives or experiences the action' (-ee) employer/employee /em'plɔɪj'i:/, sender/addressee, payee (e.g. of a cheque).

-(t)ion/-sion/-ion are used to form nouns from verbs, e.g.

complication pollution reduction alteration donation promotion admission

-ist [a person] and -ism [an activity or ideology]: used for people's politics, beliefs and ideologies, and sometimes their profession (compare with -er/-or professions above). e.g. Buddhism, journalism, Marxist, typist, physicist, terrorist.

-ist is also often used for people who play musical instruments, e.g. pianist, violinist, cellist

-ness is used to make nouns from adjectives: goodness, readiness, forgetfulness, happiness, sadness, weakness. Note what happens to adjectives that end in -y.

Adjective suffixes

-able/-ible /əbl/ with verbs, means 'can be done':

drinkable washable readable forgivable edible [can be eaten] flexible [can be bent]

Verbs

-ise (or -ize) forms verbs from adjectives, e.g. modernise [make modern], commercialise, industrialise.

Other suffixes that can help you recognise the word-class

- ment: (nouns) excitement enjoyment replacement
- ity: (nouns) flexibility productivity scarcity
- hood: (abstract nouns especially family terms) childhood motherhood
- ship: (abstract nouns especially status) friendship partnership membership
- ive: (adjectives) passive productive active
- al: (adjectives) brutal legal (nouns) refusal arrival
- ous: (adjectives) delicious outrageous furious
- ful: (adjectives) forgetful hopeful useful
- less: (adjectives) useless harmless homeless
- ify: (verbs) beautify purify terrify

NOTE

The informal suffix -ish can be added to most common adjectives, ages and times to make them less precise, e.g. She's thirtyish. He has reddish hair. Come about eightish.

TIP

When you are recording a new word in your vocabulary notebook, write any suffixes that go with it (e.g. refuse - refusal).

Exercises

- 8.1 Use the -er/-or, -ee and -ist suffixes to make the names of the following. If you need to use a dictionary, try looking up the words in bold.

Example: A person who plays jazz on the piano. a jazz pianist

- The thing that wipes rain off your car windscreen.
- A person who plays classical violin.
- A person who takes professional photographs. (N.B. pronunciation)
- A person who acts in amateur theatre.

- 8.2 Each picture is of an object ending in -er. Can you name them?

- 8.3 List six jobs you would like to have in order of preference. How many different suffixes are there in your list? Do any of the job names not have a suffix? (e.g. pilot, film star)

- 8.4 Do these words mean a thing, a person, or both?

1 a cooker	3 a ticket-holder	5 a cleaner	7 a drinker
2 a typewriter	4 a CD player	6 a smoker	8 a dresser

- 8.5 Complete each of the second sentences by changing the words underlined in the first sentences. Use a suffix from the left-hand page and make any spelling changes needed.

- Most of his crimes can be forgiven. Most of his crimes are

- appointment, involvement, compliment, arrangement compliment is the odd one out because it is a praise, while the others are actions.
- worship, kinship, friendship, partnership kinship is the odd one out because it is a relationship, while the others are actions.

Prefixes are often used to give adjectives a negative or an opposite meaning. For example, comfortable/uncomfortable, convenient/inconvenient and similar/dissimilar are opposites. Other examples are 'unjust', 'inedible', 'disloyal'. Unfortunately, there is no easy way of knowing which prefix any adjective will use to form its opposite.

TIP

When you learn a new adjective note down whether it has an opposite formed with a prefix and, if so, what it is.

- in- becomes im- before a root beginning with 'm' or 'p', e.g. immature, impatient, impartial, improbable. Similarly in- becomes ir- before a word beginning with 'r', and il- before a word beginning with 'l', e.g. irreplaceable, irreversible, illegal, illegible, illiterate.
- The prefix in- (and its variations) does not always have a negative meaning – often it gives the idea of inside or into, e.g. internal, import, insert, income.

The prefixes un- and dis- can also form the opposites of verbs, e.g. tie/untie, appear/disappear. These prefixes are used to reverse the action of the verb. Here are some more examples: disagree, disapprove, disbelieve, disconnect, discredit, dislike, dismount, disprove, disqualify, unbend, undo, undress, unfold, unload, unlock, unveil, unwrap, unzip.

Here are examples of other prefixes in English. Some of these words are used with a hyphen. Check in a dictionary if you're not sure.

Abstract nouns

An abstract noun represents an idea, experience or quality rather than an object that you can touch. For example, happiness, intention and shock are abstract nouns but pen, bed and trousers are not.

Suffixes are letters added to the end of words to make new words.

Certain suffixes are used frequently in abstract nouns. The most common are -ment, -ion, -ness and -ity. The suffix -ion sometimes becomes -tion, -sion, -ation or -ition. -ment, and -ion, are usually used to make verbs into abstract nouns.

The suffixes -ness and -ity are added to adjectives.

Here are some examples of abstract nouns using those suffixes.

achievement	action	aggressiveness	absurdity
adjustment	collection	attractiveness	anonymity amazement	combination	bitterness	complexity
discouragement	illusion	carelessness	curiosity improvement	imagination	consciousness	generosity investment	production	friendliness	hostility replacement	recognition	tenderness	prosperity
retirement	reduction	ugliness	sensitivity

Less common suffixes that form abstract nouns are -ship, -dom, -th and -hood.

The suffixes -ship and -hood are usually added to other nouns to form abstract nouns. The suffix -th is added to an adjective to form an abstract noun and -dom can combine with either a noun or an adjective.

Here are some examples of abstract nouns using those suffixes.

apprenticeship	boredom	breadth	adulthood companionship	freedom	depth	brotherhood
membership	kingdom	length	childhood ownership	martyrdom	strength	motherhood partnership	stardom	warmth	neighbourhood relationship	wisdom	width	(wo)manhood

Many abstract nouns do not use any suffix at all. Here are some examples.

anger	belief	calm	chance faith	fear	humour	idea luck	principle	rage	reason
sense	sight	speed	thought

TIP

When you learn a new adjective, find out if it has an abstract noun based on the same root and note it down in your vocabulary book with the adjective, for example, warm, warmth (abstract noun).

You will find more examples of the use of suffixes in Units 8 and 10 and of abstract nouns in Units 64 and 65.

Exercises

- 11.1 What is the abstract noun related to each of the following adjectives? All the nouns are formed in ways described on the opposite page although not all are listed opposite.

EXAMPLE tender tenderness

Compound adjectives

A compound adjective is made up of two parts. It is usually written with a hyphen, e.g. well-dressed, never-ending and shocking-pink. Its meaning is usually clear from the words it combines. The second part of the adjective is frequently a present or past participle.

A large number of compound adjectives describe personal appearance.

Here is a rather far-fetched description of a person starting from the head down.

NOTE

Some compound adjectives use a hyphen before a noun but not after a noun (e.g. a well-known singer but That singer is well known.)

Tom was a curly-haired, sun-tanned, blue-eyed, rosy-cheeked, thin-lipped, broad-shouldered, left-handed, slim-hipped, long-legged, flat-footed young man, wearing an open-necked shirt, brand-new, tight-fitting jeans and open-toed sandals.

Other compound adjectives describe a person's character.

Melissa was absent-minded [forgetful], easy-going [relaxed], good-tempered [cheerful], warm-hearted [kind] and quick-witted [intelligent] if perhaps a little big-headed [proud of herself], two-faced [hypocritical], self-centred [egotistical] and stuck-up [snobbish (colloquial)] at times.

Another special group of compound adjectives has a preposition in its second part.

The workers' declaration of an all-out strike forced management to improve conditions. Once there were fields here but now it's a totally built-up area.

That student's parents are very well-off but they don't give him much money and he is always complaining of being hard-up.

I love these shoes and, although they're worn-out, I can't throw them away.

This area was once prosperous but it now looks very run-down.

Here are some other compound adjectives with typical nouns.

air-conditioned rooms bullet-proof windows on the president's car cut-price goods in the sales duty-free cigarettes hand-made clothes interest-free credit last-minute revision for an exam long-distance lorry driver long-standing relationship off-peak train travel part-time job remote-controlled toy car second-class ticket so-called expert sugar-free diet time-consuming writing of reports top-secret information world-famous film star

You can vary the compound adjectives listed by changing one part of the adjective. For example, curly-haired, long-haired, red-haired and straight-haired; first-hand (knowledge), first-class (ticket) and first-born (child).

TIP

When you come across a compound adjective that you want to learn, write it down in a phrase or sentence describing someone or something you know, for example, Maria is curly-haired, our second-hand car. Personalising the words in this way will help you to learn them.

Compound nouns (1) noun + noun

A compound noun is a fixed expression which is made up of more than one word and functions as a noun. Such expressions are frequently combinations of two nouns, e.g. address book, human being [person], science fiction [fiction based on some kind of scientific fantasy]. A number of compound nouns are related to phrasal verbs and these are dealt with in Unit 14.

If you understand both parts of the compound noun, the meaning will usually be clear. Compound nouns are usually written as two words, e.g. tin opener [an opener for tins], bank account [an account in a bank], pedestrian crossing [a place for people to cross a road], but sometimes they are written with a hyphen instead of a space between the words, e.g. pen-name [a false name used by a writer, a pseudonym], baby-sitter [someone who sits with a baby/child while parents are out]. Sometimes they may be written as one word, e.g. earring, trademark [the symbol of a product].

Usually the main stress is on the first part of the compound but sometimes it is on the second part. In the common compound nouns below, the word which contains the main stress is underlined.

alarm clock	answering machine	blood donor	book token
burglar alarm	bus stop	contact lens	credit card
heart attack	package holiday	steering wheel	shoe horn
tea -bag	windscreen	windscreen wiper	youth hostel

Compound nouns may be countable, uncountable or only used in either the singular or the plural. The examples given in C are all countable compound nouns. Here are some examples of common uncountable compound nouns.

air- traffic control	birth control	blood pressure	computer technology
cotton wool	data- processing	food poisoning	hay fever [allergy to pollen]
income tax	junk food	mail order	pocket money

Here are some examples of common compound nouns used only in the singular.

arms race [countries wanting most powerful weapons]
brain drain [highly educated people leaving country to work abroad]
death penalty
generation gap	global warming	greenhouse effect
labour force	mother -tongue
sound barrier	welfare state

Here are some examples of common compound nouns used only in the plural.

grass roots	human rights	kitchen scissors	luxury goods
race relations	road works	sunglasses	traffic lights

TIP

Compound nouns are particularly common when talking about new inventions or aspects of society in the modern world. Keep an eye open for more examples when you are reading a newspaper or magazine and note them down in a special section of your vocabulary notebook.

Exercises

- 13.1 Complete these bubble networks with any appropriate expressions from the opposite page. Add extra bubbles if you need them.

Note down any examples of compound nouns that you find. Explain what the significance is of each of the parts of the compounds.

Compound nouns (2) verb + preposition

Some compound nouns are based on phrasal verbs, e.g. takeover / to take over. In sections B to E you will see these types of nouns in context. The meaning of the compound noun is given in brackets. To form the plural, 's' is added to the end, e.g. pin-ups.

Nouns based on phrasal verbs often have an informal feel to them and they are particularly common in newspaper reporting. Here are examples of such nouns in use.

Words from other languages

English has borrowed words from most of the other languages with which it has had contact. It has taken many expressions from the ancient languages, Latin and Greek, and these borrowings often have academic or literary associations. From French, English has taken lots of words to do with cooking, the arts, and a more sophisticated lifestyle in general. From Italian come words connected with music and the plastic arts. German expressions in English have been coined either by tourists bringing back words for new things they saw or by philosophers or historians describing German concepts or experiences. Words borrowed from other languages often relate to things which English speakers experienced from the first time abroad.

There are borrowings from a wide range of languages. For example, from Japanese, tycoon, karate, origami, judo, futon and bonsai. From Arabic, mattress, cipher, alcove, carafe, algebra, harem and yashmak. From Turkish, yoghurt, jackal, kiosk, tulip and caftan; from Farsi, caravan, shawl, bazaar and sherbet, and from Eskimo, kayak, igloo and anorak.

The map of Europe below shows the places of origin of some English words and expressions borrowed from some other European languages. Use a dictionary to check the meanings of any words you are not sure about.

TIP

English has borrowed very freely from other languages and you may well come across English words that you are familiar with from your own language. Note, however, that the pronunciation is often anglicised, so check in a dictionary.

Exercises

Some abbreviations are only written forms; they are always pronounced as the full word.

Words commonly mispronounced

This page looks at some of the words which cause pronunciation difficulties for learners of English. The phonetic transcription is provided for some of the words below. If you are not sure of the pronunciation of any of the other words, check in the index at the back of the book or in a good learners' dictionary. Check that you understand the symbols and that you know how your dictionary indicates where the stress is.

To master English pronunciation it is helpful to learn the 20 phonetic symbols for English vowel sounds. It is not really necessary to learn the consonant symbols as it is usually not difficult to know how consonants should be pronounced. Vowels are important because the vowel letters can be pronounced in many different ways:

a	about /ə/ wander /ɑ/ last /ɑ:/ late /eɪ/	e	met /e/ meter /i:/ /ə/
i	alive /aɪ/ give /ɪ/	o	sorry /ɒ/ go /əʊ/ love /ʌ/ to /u:/
u	put /ʊ/ cut /ʌ/ cupid /ju:/	ea	head /e/ team /i:/ react /i:æ/
ie	fiend /i:/ friend /e/ science /aɪə/	ou	our /aʊ/ route /u:/ would /ʊ/
ei	rein /eɪ/ receive /i:/ reinforce /i:i/	oo	cool /u:/ cook /ʊ/ coopt /əʊn/

The letters below in bold are silent in the examples:

NOTE

/r/ is not silent in some varieties of English, for example American, Irish, Scottish.

p	psychic /ˈsaɪkɪk/ psychiatry pneumatic receipt pseudonym psychology
b	comb /kəʊm/ dumb numb tomb climb womb lamb
b	doubt /daʊt/ subtle debt debtor
\	c ould /kəʊd/ s hould calm half talk palm walk salmon ch alk
h	honour /ˈʌnə/ honourable honest hour hourly heir heiress
t	whistle /ˈwɪsəl/ castle listen fasten soften Christmas
k	knee /ni:/ knife know knob knowledge knot knit r	card /kɑ:d/ park farm burn work storm tart
r	(unless followed by a vowel) mother /ˈmʌðə/ sister teacher water

Some two-syllable words in English have the same form for the noun and the verb. The stress is on the first syllable of the word when it is a noun and the second syllable when it is a verb, e.g. Wool is a major Scottish export. Scotland exports a lot of wool. Here are some other words like this.

conduct	conflict	contest	decrease	suspect desert	import	increase	insult	transfer permit	present	progress	protest	transport record	reject	reprint	subject	upset

Here are a number of other words which are often mispronounced.

apostrophe /əpəˈstrəfi/	catastrophe /kəˈtæstrəfi/	cupboard /ˈkʌbərd/
recipe /ˈresɪpi/	hiccough /ˈhɪkəp/	sword /ˈsɔ:d/
plough /plau/	muscle /ˈmʌsəl/	interesting /ˈɪntrəstɪŋ/

Multi-syllabic words in English tend to put their main stress on the third syllable from the end. Compare photograph, photography, photographically. Note that this rule does have exceptions!

- 1 They sang a psalm to honour the memory of the world-famous psychologist as she was laid to rest in the family tomb.

Onomatopoeic words

Onomatopoeic words are those which seem to sound like their meaning. The most obvious examples are verbs relating to the noises which animals make, e.g. cows moo and horses neigh.

If the vowel sound in an onomatopoeic word is short, it usually signifies a short, sharp sound. If it is long (indicated in the International Phonetic Alphabet by :) then the word usually signifies a longer, slower sound. Compare pip /pɪp/ which is a short sound with peep /pi:p/ which is a long sound.

Certain combinations of letters have particular sound associations in English.

gr- at the beginning of a word can suggest something unpleasant or miserable, e.g. groan [make a deep sound forced out by pain or despair], grumble [complain in a bad-tempered way], grumpy [bad-tempered], grunt [make a low, rough sound like pigs do, or people expressing disagreement or boredom], growl [make a deep, threatening sound].

cl- at the beginning of a word can suggest something sharp and/or metallic, e.g. click [make a short sharp sound], clang [make a loud ringing noise], clank [make a dull metallic noise, not as loud as a clang], clash [make a loud, broken, confused noise as when metal objects strike together], clink [make the sound of small bits of metal or glass knocking together]. Horses go clip-clop on the road.

sp- at the beginning of a word can have an association with water or other liquids or powders, e.g. splash [cause a liquid to fly about in drops], spit [send liquid out from the mouth], splutter [make a series of spitting sounds], spray [send liquid through the air in tiny drops either by the wind or some instrument], sprinkle [scatter small drops], spurt [come out in a sudden burst].

wh- at the beginning of a word often suggests the movement of air, e.g. whistle [a high-pitched noise made by forcing air or steam through a small opening], whirr [sound like a bird's wings moving rapidly], whizz [make the sound of something rushing through air], wheeze [breathe noisily especially with a whistling sound in the chest], whip [long piece of rope or leather or to hit with one of these].

-ash at the end of a word can suggest something fast and violent, e.g. smash [break violently into small pieces], dash [move or be moved violently], crash [suddenly strike violently and noisily], bash [strike heavily so as to break or injure], mash [make soft or pulpy by beating or crushing], gash [a long deep cut or wound].

-ckle, -ggle, or -zzle at the end of a word can suggest something light and repeated, e.g. trickle [to flow in a thin stream or drops], crackle [make a series of short cracking sounds], tinkle [make a succession of light ringing sounds], giggle [laugh lightly], wriggle [move with quick short twistings], sizzle [make a hissing sound like something cooking in fat], drizzle [small, fine rain].

Homophones are words with different meanings which are pronounced in the same way but are spelt differently, e.g. bow as in 'he took a bow' and bough, 'the bough of a tree'.

Follow-up: Try and get hold of a news report in English. Underline all the time connectors and see if there are any which you can add to those on the left-hand page.

If you find any, write a whole sentence in your notebook showing how the connector is used.

In addition to if, there are several other words and phrases for expressing condition.

NOTE

Don't confuse in case of with in case. 'Take your umbrella in case it rains' means 'it isn't raining but it might rain'.

- 1 You can't come in unless you have a ticket. [... if you do not have a ticket]

- 3 In case of fire, dial 112. [When there is ...; usually seen on notices; you can also say in the event of.]

- 4 You can stay, as long as you don't mind sleeping on the sofa. [less formal than so long as and less formal and not so strong as on condition that]

R Providing (that) or provided (that) can also be used in examples 2 and 4. They are less formal and not so strong as on condition that but stronger and more restricting than as long as, e.g. Provided/Providing you don't mind cats, you can stay with us.

Note the use of supposing and what if (usually in spoken language) for possible situations in the future. What if is more direct.

MICK: Paul's coming tomorrow. He'll help us.

ALICE: Supposing / What if he doesn't turn up; what shall we do then?

Conditions with -ever

The -ever suffix means 'it does not matter which ...'. The stress is normally on ever.

However you do it, it will cost a lot of money.

You'll get to the railway station, whichever bus you take.

Whoever wins the General Election, nothing will really change.

That box is so big it will be in the way wherever you leave it.

These four sentences can also be expressed using no matter. Note the stress.

No matter how you do it, it will cost a lot of money.

You'll get to the railway station, no matter which bus you take.

Some nouns which express condition

Certain conditions must be met before the Peace Talks can begin. [rather formal]

You probably know how to use words like because, since and as to refer to the cause of or reason for something. Here are some other ways to express cause and reason.

Owing to the icy conditions, the two lorries collided. [rather informal]

Owing to the fact that the conditions were icy ...

The collision was due to the icy conditions.

The collision was caused by ice on the road.

The following sentences are all fairly formal, and more frequent in written English:

She wrote to the press with the aim of exposing the scandal. [purpose]

I've invited you here with a view to resolving our differences. [sounds a bit more indirect than with the aim of]

He refused to answer on the grounds that his lawyer wasn't there. [reason]

The purpose of her visit was to inspect the equipment.

Results

Most of these expressions are fairly formal, and more frequent in written English:

He did no work. As a result / As a consequence / Consequently, he failed his exams.

The result/consequence of all these changes is that no-one is happy any more.

[The examples with consequence/consequently sound more formal than result]

His remarks resulted in everyone getting angry. [verb + in]

The events had an outcome that no-one could have predicted. [result of a process or event or of meetings, discussions, etc.]

The upshot of all these problems was that we had to start again. [less formal than outcome]

TIP

When recording these expressions in your notebook, don't forget to write the prepositions that go with them (e.g. result in, consequence of).

You shouldn't seem so surprised. After all, I did warn you.

It's all very well saying you love dogs, but who'll take it for walks if we do get one?

NOTE

The words and expressions in C are followed by nouns, noun phrases, or -ing.
Do not say: As well as she speaks French, she also speaks Japanese.
You say: As well as speaking French, she

TIP

When learning connecting words such as those in this unit, make a note about the formality of the word where appropriate. It is possible to sound too formal in conversation if you use connectors only normally found in writing or formal speech.

Exercises

Text-referring words

Text-referring words take their meaning from the surrounding text. For example, this sentence in isolation does not mean much:

We decided to look at the problem again and try to find a solution.

What problem? The words problem and solution help organise the argument of the text, but they do not tell us the topic of the text. They refer to something somewhere else.

Here are some examples. The word in bold refers to the underlined words.

Pollution is increasing. The problem is getting worse each day.

Should taxes be raised or lowered? This was the biggest issue in the election. [topic causing great argument and controversy]

Whether the war could have been avoided is a question that interests historians.

Let's discuss crime. That's always an interesting topic. [subject to argue about or discuss, e.g. in a debate or in an essay]

Punishment is only one aspect of crime. [part of the topic]

Problem-solution words

Text-referring words are often used with 'problem-solution' types of text, where a problem is presented and ways of solving it are discussed. In the following example, the words in bold concern a problem or a solution. Try to learn these words as a family.

The situation in our cities with regard to traffic is going from bad to worse. Congestion is a daily part of urban life. The problem is now beginning to affect our national economies. Unless a new approach is found to control traffic, we will never find a solution to the dilemma.

In the dialogue below, two politicians are arguing. Note how the words in bold refer to parts of the argument.

- A: Your claim that we're doing nothing to invest in industry is false. We invested £10 billion last year. You've ignored this fact.
- B: But the investment has all gone to service industries. The real point is that we need to invest in our manufacturing industries.
- A: That argument is out-of-date in a modern technological society. Our position has always been that we should encourage technology.
- B: But that view won't help to reduce unemployment.

The following problem-solution words are grouped in families associated with the key-words in bold. The prepositions normally used with them are given in brackets.

situation: state of affairs, position (with regard to) problem: difficulty [more formal], crisis, matter response: reaction (to), attitude (to) solution: answer (to), resolution (to), key (to), way out (of) evaluation [of the solution]: assessment, judgement

Discourse markers in speech

Discourse markers are words and phrases which organise, comment on or in some way frame what we are saying or writing. An example from spoken language is well:

A: So you live in Boston? B: Well, near Boston.

Well here shows that the speaker is aware he/she is changing the direction of the conversation in some way (not giving the expected 'yes' answer). In other words, well is a comment on what is being said. Another example is how teachers use words like right and OK to organise what is happening in a classroom:

Right/OK, let's have a look at exercise 3.

Here are some common markers which organise the different stages of a conversation.

Now, what shall we do next? So, would you like to come to the table now, please?

Good, I'll ring you on Thursday, then. Well then, what was it you want to talk about?

Now then, I want you to look at this picture. [said by someone in control of the conversation, e.g. a teacher]

Fine/Great, let's leave it at that, then, shall we?

In these mini-dialogues, the markers in bold modify or comment on what is being said:

A: It's cold isn't it?

B: Yeah.

A: Mind you, it is November, so it's not surprising.

[an afterthought, used like however]

A: It's quite a problem ...

B: Listen/Look, why don't you let me sort it out?

A: Would you? Thanks a lot.

[introducing a suggestion/point]

A: What's her number?

B: Let me see, I have it here somewhere ...

[a hesitation – gaining time]

A: And he said he was go –

B: Well, that's typical!

A: Hang on / Hold on! Let me tell you what he said!

[preventing an interruption]

Here are some other similar markers.

I can't do that. You see, I'm not the boss here. [explaining]

He was, you know, sort of ... just standing there. [hesitation]

So that's what we have to do. Anyway, I'll ring you tomorrow. [signalling that the speaker thinks the topic or the conversation can now close]

It rained all day yesterday. Still, we can't complain, it was fine all last week. [contrasts two ideas with one another]

We shouldn't be too hard on him. At the end of the day, he's only a child. [the most important point or argument is ...]

In informal spoken language, people often use the letters of the alphabet (usually no more than a, b and c, to list points they want to make.

FRED: Why aren't you going this evening?

BOB: Well, a I haven't got any money, and b it's too far anyway.

TIP

It's sometimes difficult to catch markers when they are used in rapid speech, but when you are in a position to listen in a relaxed way to someone speaking English (for example, if you are not the person being spoken to, or you are listening to informal speech on radio or TV), concentrate on listening for markers.

Exercises

- 27.1 Underline all the discourse markers in this monologue. Not all of them are on the left-hand page.

'Well, where shall I start? It was last summer and we were just sitting in the garden, sort of doing nothing much. Anyway, I looked up and ... see, we have this kind of long wall at the end of the garden, and it's ... like ... a motorway for cats, for instance, that big fat black one you saw, well, that one considers it has a right of way over our vegetable patch, so ... where was I? Yes, I was looking at that wall, you know, day-dreaming as usual, and all of a sudden there was this new cat I'd never seen before, or rather, it wasn't an ordinary cat at all ... I mean, you'll never believe what it was ...'

- 27.2 Here are some small dialogues where there are no markers used at all, which would be unusual in real informal conversation. Add markers from the opposite page and from exercise 1 above, where you think the speakers might use them.

1 A: Are you a football fan? B: I like it; I wouldn't say I was a fan.	4 A: Which number is yours? B: (pause) ... it's that one there, yes, this one.
2 A: I'll take care of these. B: That's everything. A: See you next week. B: That was a very useful meeting.	5 A: He's looking exhausted. B: Yes, he is. A: He has an awful lot of responsibility, so it's hardly surprising.
3 A: It was last Monday. I was coming home from work. I saw this ragged old man approaching me. I stopped him ... B: Jim Dibble! A: Let me tell you what happened first.	6 A: What do you mean, 'cold'? B: She's not friendly, very distant. Last week I gave her a jolly smile and she ... scowled at me. A: What do you expect? I've seen the way you smile at people, it puts them off.

- 27.3 Which marker fits best into the sentences? Rewrite the sentences with the markers included.

at the end of the day still a, b, c, etc. anyway

- 1 Yes, there is a lot of work to do. I must rush now, I'll call you tomorrow.
- 2 There's two reasons I think he's wrong. People don't act like that, and Paul would certainly never act like that.
- 3 Money is not the most important thing in life. I really do believe that.
- 4 I never got a chance to tell him. I'm seeing him next week. I'll tell him then.

Follow-up: If you can, make a recording of a natural conversation between English speakers (get their permission, but don't say why you need it). What markers do they use?

Discourse markers in writing

In this unit we look at how certain common words and phrases are used to organise written texts.

Organising a formal text

First / Firstly / First of all, we must consider ...

Next, it is important to remember that ...

Secondly and thirdly are also used with first/firstly for lists.

Finally/Lastly, we should recall that ... [not 'at last']

Turning to the question of foreign policy, ... [changing to a new topic]

Leaving aside the question of pollution, there are also other reasons ... [the writer will not deal with that question here]

In parenthesis, let us not forget that ... [making a point that is a side issue, not part of the main argument]

In summary, to sum up, we may state that ... [listing / summing up the main points]

In sum, the economic issues are at the centre of this debate. [listing / summing up the main points: much more formal]

In conclusion / to conclude, I should like to point out that ... [finishing the text]

Markers for explaining, exemplifying, rephrasing, etc.

To learn new words properly a lot of recycling is needed; in other words / that is to say, you have to study the same words over and over again. [That is to say is much more formal]

Some English words are hard to pronounce, for example / for instance, 'eighth'.

It might be possible, say, to include the parents in the discussion. [similar to for example; note the commas before and after; say is also common in spoken language]

The Parliament has different committees. Briefly, these consist of two main types. [the explanation will be short and not comprehensive]

She is, so to speak / as it were, living in a world of her own. [makes what you are saying sound less definite/precise; As it were is more formal.]

Signposts around the text

These are words and phrases that point the reader to different parts of a text.

The following points will be covered in this essay: ... [used to introduce a list]

It was stated above/earlier that the history of the USA is ... [earlier in the text]

See page 238 for more information. [go to page 238]

Many writers have claimed this (see below). [examples will be given later in the text]

A full list is given overleaf. [turn the page and you will find the list]

For further details/discussion, see Chapter 4. [more discussion/details]

May I refer you to page 3 of my last letter to you? [formal; May I ask you to look at / read]

- Ⓡ With reference to your fax of 28th May 2000, ... [formal; often used at the beginning of a letter to link it with an earlier text]

TIP

Make a separate list of markers for spoken and written English. You may end up sounding too formal or too informal if you do not distinguish between those found in writing and those common in speech.

Exercises

- 28.1 Fill the gaps with typical written-text markers. The first letter of each phrase/word is given.

Points for discussion – crime and punishment:

F..... (1), it is important to understand why people commit crimes, i..... (2), what are the motives which make people do things they would never normally do? F..... (3), a young man steals clothes from a shop; is it because he is unemployed? a drug addict? mentally disturbed? N..... (4), it is essential to consider whether punishment makes any difference, or is it just, a..... (5), a kind of revenge? L..... (6), how can we help victims of crime? L..... (7), how can we get to the roots of the problem, rather than just attacking the symptoms?

- 28.2 Match the markers on the left with the appropriate function on the right.

1 Leaving aside ...	change the topic
2 In parenthesis, ...	read something earlier in the text
3 Turning to ...	this will not be discussed
4 In conclusion ...	this document is about another one
5 With reference to ...	to finish off
6 See above ...	as an aside / secondary issue

- 28.3 Which marker(s) ...

- 1 is based on the verb 'to say'?
- 2 is based on the verb 'to follow'?
- 3 is a form of the word 'far'?
- 4 contains something you find on trees?
- 5 contain the word/syllable 'sum'? There are three of them.

- 28.4 Write a short letter to the Editor of a newspaper about a report in that paper the previous week that a local hospital is going to close. You think the hospital should not close because:

The nearest other hospital is 50 kilometres away.
It is being closed for political reasons, not genuine economic ones.
200 people work at the hospital; they will lose their jobs.
The hospital makes an important contribution to the local economy.
It is the only hospital in the region with a special cancer unit.

Try to include as many as possible of these markers:

with reference to firstly, secondly, thirdly, etc. leaving aside the following to sum up briefly that is to say finally

Uncountable nouns

Countable nouns can be used with a/an and made plural (e.g. a hat, two hats). Uncountable nouns are not normally used with a(n) or the plural, e.g. information, not 'an information', or 'some informations'. You can learn uncountable nouns in groups associated with the same subject or area. Here are some possible headings.

NOTE

Travel is also an uncountable noun, e.g. Travel broadens the mind.

Travel

luggage
baggage (Am. Eng.)

accommodation

money currency equipment

(e.g. for skiing)

information

Day-to-day household items soap

toothpaste

paper

washing-up liquid

shoe polish

Food

The word food is uncountable, and so are many food names. Try adding more uncountable words to this list.

sugar rice spaghetti butter flour soup

Abstract uncountable nouns

She gave me some advice on how to study for the exam.
I picked up some interesting knowledge on that course.
She's made a lot of progress in a very short time.
She has done some research on marine life.
They've done a lot of work on the project.

Material and resources

For making clothes, furniture, etc.: cloth (e.g. cotton, silk) leather wool
For buildings: stone brick plastic wood/timber concrete glass

Typical mistakes

Don't say: What a terrible weather! She has long hairs. I have a news for you. We bought some new furnitures. Say: What terrible weather! She has long hair. I have some news for you. We bought some new furniture.

Always mark an uncountable noun with (U) in your vocabulary notebook, or write 'some ...' or 'a lot of ...' before it.

(See Unit 33 for ways of making uncountable nouns countable.)

Exercises

- 29.1 Decide whether these sentences need the indefinite article a(n). Not all of the nouns are on the left-hand page. Use a dictionary that tells you whether the nouns are countable.

- 1 He gave us all advice on what to take with us.
- 2 I'm sorry. I can't come. I have homework to do.
- 3 She's doing investigation of teenage slang in English for her university project.
- 4 You'll need rice if you want to make a Chinese meal.

- 6 I have to buy film for the holiday. I think I'll get about five rolls.
- 7 We saw beautiful silk and cotton in Thailand.

- 29.2 List these words in two columns side by side, one for uncountables and one for countables. Then join the words which have similar meaning.

tip clothing case information job advice travel garment trip work baggage fact

- 29.3 Imagine you are going away for a week's holiday and you pack a suitcase with a number of things. Make a list of what you would pack and tick (✓) all the items on your list that are uncountable nouns in English.

- 4 Her researches are definitely making great progresses these days. She has done a lot of original works recently.

- 29.5 Personal qualities and skills use a lot of uncountable nouns. For example, we might say that a secretary should have intelligence, reliability, charm and enthusiasm. These are all uncountable nouns. Choose from the list and say what qualities these people should have. Say whether they need some, a lot or a bit of the quality. Use a dictionary for any difficult words.

jobs: soldier nurse teacher explorer actor athlete writer surgeon receptionist qualities: patience courage determination goodwill charm stamina reliability loyalty energy experience commitment talent creativity intelligence training imagination

- 29.6 Could I have ...? Practise asking for these everyday items and decide whether you must say a or some.

vinegar duster needle thread sellotape tea-bag shoe polish

Words that only occur in the plural

Tools, instruments, pieces of equipment

There was a series of programmes on TV about Japan.

Is there a cheap means of transport I could use to get there?

Exercises

30.1 Make a list of (a) subjects you studied at school or elsewhere, and (b) your leisure interests. How many of the words are plural? Use a dictionary if necessary.

1 sock	trouser	slipper	3 knife	scissor	razor
2 billiard	squash	tennis	4 tracksuit	costume	dungaree

30.6 In this silly story, change the singular nouns to plural where appropriate. Change the verbs where necessary.

I decided that if I wanted to be a pop star I'd have to leave home and get lodging in London. I finally got a room, but it was on the outskirts of the city. The owner didn't live on the premise, so I could make as much noise as I liked. The acoustic in the bathroom was fantastic, so I practised there. I made so much noise I almost shook the foundation! I went to the headquarter of the Musicians' Union, but a guy there said I just didn't have a good enough look to be famous. Oh well, never mind!

Countable and uncountable nouns with different meanings

When we use a countable noun we are thinking of specific things that can be counted (e.g. two glasses). When we use it as an uncountable noun we are thinking of stuff or material or the idea of a thing in general (e.g. this door is made of glass).

stuff/materials	things
glass 	a glass / glasses
cloth 	a cloth
fish 	a fish
work 	a work

Be careful! there's broken glass on the road. I need a cloth to wipe the table.
We had fish for dinner. Hamlet is one of Shakespeare's most famous works.

Here are some more nouns used in both ways. Make sure you know the difference between the uncountable and the countable meanings.

drink / a drink hair / a hair paper / a paper land / a land people / a people home / a home policy / a policy trade / a trade

Drink was the cause of all his problems. [alcohol]

The different peoples of Asia. [races / national groups]

Her grandmother lives in a home. [an institution]

I've lost an important insurance policy. [a document]

Trade with China has increased. [imports and exports]

The names of food items often have a different meaning depending on whether they are used as countable or uncountable nouns (see fish above).

coffee/tea 	→ a coffee and two teas
potato 	→ just two potatoes, please!
would you like some chocolate? 	→ would you like a chocolate?
salt and pepper 	→ a pepper
a hot dog with onion 	→ an onion

Exercises

- 31.1 Would you normally expect to find these things in most people's houses/flats/garages/gardens? In which room or place? Answer for both meanings (countable and uncountable).

EXAMPLE an iron Yes, most people have an iron to iron their clothes; they might keep it in the kitchen somewhere. Most people don't normally keep iron (the metal) at home, but they might have things made of iron (e.g. a frying pan) in the kitchen.

4 a swarm of	elephants
5 a row of	bed-linen
6 a heap of	mountains
7 a herd of	schoolkids

32.4 Rewrite these sentences using collective words. Don't forget to change the verb to singular or plural where necessary.

- 4 A large number of sheep had escaped from a field.
- 5 She gave me six identical sherry glasses.
- 6 She gave me five or six beautiful roses.

32.5 Some collective nouns are associated with words about using language. Underline any you can see in this next text and make a note of them in your vocabulary notebook.

THE JOURNALISTS raised a whole host of questions about the actions of the police during the demonstration. There had been a barrage of complaints about police violence. The Chief of Police replied that he was not prepared to listen to a string of wild allegations without any evidence. In the end, he just gave a series of short answers that left everyone dissatisfied.

Follow-up: How would you translate the expressions you underlined in Exercise 32.5 into your own language?

Making uncountable nouns countable

You can make many uncountable nouns singular and countable by adding a piece of or a (little) bit of. Similarly you can make such nouns plural with pieces of or bits of. (Bit is less formal than piece and they are not always interchangeable. Bit can be used with all types of nouns. Piece tends to be used more with uncountable nouns. Bit suggests a smaller amount than piece.)

She bought an attractive old piece of furniture at the auction sale.

How many pieces of luggage have you got with you?

The police collected bits of information from different sources.

Chopin wrote some wonderful pieces of music.

Before you go to England I should give you two bits of advice ...

He spends all his money buying new bits of computer equipment.

A number of other words go with specific uncountable nouns.

Weather

Today's weather has been variable. In the north there were heavy showers (of rain).

The sunny spell (of weather) that we have had this last week has continued in much of the south although there were occasional rumbles of thunder and flashes of lightning in some areas with some quite loud claps of thunder in one or two areas. These were followed by a few spots of rain but gusts of wind soon blew them away and the sunshine returned. (See also Unit 36 for more weather words.)

Groceries

'I need a loaf of bread, a couple of slices of ham, two bars of chocolate, a tube of toothpaste, two cartons of milk and three bars of soap.'

[slice can also be used with toast, bread, meat and cheese.]

Nature

Look at the ladybird on that blade of grass!

What's happened? Look at that cloud of smoke hanging over the town!

She blew little puffs of smoke out of her cigarette straight into my face.

Let's go out and get a breath of fresh air.

Put another lump of coal on the fire, please. [lump can also be used with 'sugar']

Other

I had an amazing stroke of luck this morning.

I've never seen him do a stroke of work. [only in negative sentences]

I've never seen him in such a fit of temper before.

The donkey is the basic means of transport on the island.

Tights must be the most useful article/item of clothing ever invented.

There was an interesting item of news about France on TV last night.

NOTE

A stroke of used with luck or work give them greater emphasis than a bit of.

The phrase a state of can serve to make an uncountable noun singular. The nouns used with state are usually abstract and include chaos, emergency, tension, confusion, health, disorder, uncertainty, poverty, agitation, disrepair and flux [continuous change], e.g. a state of emergency.

Exercises

33.1 Match the words in the list on the left with the words they collocate with on the right.

1 a stroke	lightning
2 a shower	coal
3 an article	grass
4 a lump of	news
5 a flash	rain
6 a blade	clothing
7 an item	thunder
8 a rumble	luck

33.2 Change the uncountable nouns to countable nouns in the following sentences by using either a piece of or a bit of or one of the more specific words listed in B opposite.

EXAMPLE Could you buy me some bread, please? Could you buy me a loaf of bread, please?

- My mother gave me some advice that I have always remembered.

- We had some terribly windy weather last winter.
- Would you like some more toast?
- He never does any work at all in the house.

- I can give you some important information about that.
- We could see smoke hovering over the city from a long way away.
- There is some interesting new equipment in that catalogue.

33.4 Make up a puzzle of your own like the one above using the language practised in this unit. If possible, test a friend.

33.5 Now decide who or what might be in the following states and write your own sentences using these expressions.

- 1 chaos 2 flux 3 confusion 4 tension

Countries, nationalities and languages

Using 'the'

Most names of countries are used without 'the', but some countries and other names have 'the' before them, e.g. The United States / US(A), The United Kingdom / UK, The Netherlands, The Philippines, The Commonwealth.

Some countries may be referred to with or without 'the', (the) Lebanon, (the) Gambia, (the) Ukraine, (the) Sudan. The forms without 'the' are more common.

Adjectives referring to countries and languages

With -ish: British Danish Flemish Irish Polish Spanish Turkish

With -(i)an: American Australian Brazilian Canadian Korean Russian

With -ese: Chinese Japanese Maltese Portuguese Taiwanese Vietnamese

With -i: Bangladeshi Iraqi Israeli Kuwaiti Pakistani Yemeni

With -ic: Arabic Icelandic Slavonic

Some adjectives are worth learning separately, e.g. Cypriot, Dutch, Greek, Swiss, Thai.

Nationalities

Some nationalities and cultural identities have nouns for referring to people, e.g. a Finn, a Swede, a Turk, a Spaniard, a Dane, a Briton, an Arab. In most cases we can use the adjective as a noun, e.g. a German, an Italian, a Belgian, a Catalan, a Greek, an African, a European. Some need woman/man/person added to them (you can't say 'a Dutch'), so if in doubt, use them, e.g. a Dutch man, a French woman, an Irish person, an Icelandic man.

World regions

People and races

People belong to ethnic groups and regional groups such as Afro-Caribbeans, Asians and Latin Americans. What are you? (e.g. North African, Southern African, European, Melanesian)

They speak dialects as well as languages. Everyone has a native language or first language; many have second and third languages. Some people are expert in more than one language and are bilingual or multilingual.

Exercises

35.1 Ways of learning nationality and language adjectives: some adjectives can form regional groups, e.g. Latin American countries are always described by -(i)an adjectives.

- 1 Complete the list of Latin American adjectives. Look at a world map if you have to. Brazilian, Chilean, ...
- 2 Adjectives of former European socialist bloc countries and parts of the former Soviet Union also end in -ian. Complete the list. Hungarian, Armenian ...
- 3 What other regional groupings can you see on the left-hand page? (e.g. many -ish adjectives are European) 35.2 Famous names. Can you name a famous ...

EXAMPLE Argentinian sportsman or woman? Diego Maradona

- 1 Chinese politician?
- 2 South African political leader?
- 3 Pole who became a world religious leader?
- 4 Italian opera singer?
- 5 Irish rock-music group?

35.3 All these nationality adjectives have a change in stress and/or pronunciation from the name of the country. How do we pronounce the adjectives? Use a dictionary for any you don't know. Use phonetic script if possible (see Unit 5).

EXAMPLE Canada → Canadian → kan-ee-don

1 Panama → Panamanian	3 Ghana → Ghanaian	5 Egypt → Egyptian
2 Cyprus → Cypriot	4 Jordan → Jordanian	6 Fiji → Fijian

35.4 Correct the mistakes in these newspaper headlines.

1 Princess to marry a French?
Royal sensation!

camps

ON SMUGGLING CHARGE

2 Britains have highest tax rate in EU

5 Iraqi delegation meets

- 3 What are the five countries with the highest population?
- 4 How many languages are there in the world?
- 5 Where is Kiribati?
- 6 Where do people speak Inuit?
- 7 What are the five most widely spoken languages?

Follow-up: Make sure you can name your own nationality, country, region, ethnic group, language(s), etc. in English.

Cold weather

In Scandinavia, the chilly⁽¹⁾ days of autumn soon change to the cold days of winter. The first frosts⁽²⁾ arrive and the roads become icy. Rain becomes sleet⁽³⁾ and then snow, at first turning to slush⁽⁴⁾ in the streets, but soon settling⁽⁵⁾, with severe blizzards⁽⁶⁾ and snowdrifts⁽⁷⁾ in the far north. Freezing⁽⁸⁾ weather often continues in the far north until May or even June, when the ground starts to thaw ⁽⁹⁾ and the ice melts⁽¹⁰⁾ again.

Exercises

36.1 Match each word with a word from the box.

1 thunder	2 torrential	3 down	stones	drift	storm	warning
4 heat	5 hail	6 snow	7 gale	rain	wave	pour

My first experience of real winter weather was when I went to Northern Canada. I was used to the sort of snow that falls in London, which quickly turns into brown⁽¹⁾ with all the people walking on it. In fact, most of the time I was in London, it didn't really snow properly, it was mostly⁽²⁾. Apart from that, British winters meant a bit of white⁽³⁾ on my garden and occasionally having to drive very carefully on icy roads early in the morning. I had never experienced the⁽⁴⁾ and⁽⁵⁾ that can paralyse a whole city in less than an hour and close roads completely. However, when the earth finally⁽⁶⁾ and all the snow⁽⁷⁾ away in spring, everything comes to life again and looks more beautiful than ever.

36.3 What kinds of weather do you think caused the following to happen? Write a sentence which could go before each of these.

- 4 Cars were skidding out of control.

- 7 We were able to sit in the garden in the middle of winter.
- 8 The earth became rock-hard and a lot of plants died.
- 9 It blew the newspaper right out of my hands.
- 10 A row of very big trees had been blown over.
- 11 I could hardly see my hand in front of my face.

EXAMPLE skiing bad: mild weather which makes the snow melt; good: cold, clear days

1 Planting flowers in a garden	4 A day of sightseeing in a big city
2 Having an evening barbecue	5 Camping out in a tent
3 Going out in a small sailing boat	6 Looking at ships through binoculars

36.5 This chart shows anyone who wants to visit the West of Ireland what weather to expect at different times of the year. Make a similar chart for your country or home region.

Dec-Mar	April-June	July-Aug	Sep-Nov
coldest months; usually quite wet; snow on hills	generally cool, often wet and windy but improving	warmest months; bright with showers; cool sea breezes	often mild becoming cold; mist and fog

Follow-up: watch the weather forecast on an English-language TV channel (e.g. The BBC World Service or CNN), or listen to one on the radio, or look at one on the Internet, e.g. at <http://www.cnn.com> Note how many words from this unit are used.

Height and build a rather plump or stout man

a slim woman [positive]

a skinny person [rather negative]

I feel very tense (or wound-up / stressed-out) after a very busy day at work but, after a hot bath and a nice cup of tea, I'll soon feel relaxed.

Jane is very sensible – she'd never do anything stupid. In other words, she's very practical and down-to-earth.

Relationships

Types of relationships

Here is a scale showing closeness and distance in relationships in different contexts.

	CLOSER ←	→ MORE DISTANT
friendship:	best friend	good friend
work:	close colleague /'kɒli:g/	friend (casual) acquaintance
love/romance:	lover	steady boy/girlfriend
marriage:	wife/husband/partner	ex-* ex-*

*ex- can be used with or without (informally) another word: She's my ex. (girlfriend, etc.)

Mate is a colloquial word for a good friend. It can also be used in compound nouns to describe a person you share something with, e.g. classmate, shipmate, workmate, flatmate. The stress is on the first word in each case: /'klu:smet/

Workmate is usual in non-professional contexts or in informal contexts; colleague is more common among professional people, and sounds more formal.

Fiancé/ée /fi:'nɒseɪ/ can still be used for someone you are engaged to, but a lot of people feel it is dated nowadays. You will sometimes see husband-/wife-to-be in journalistic style.

English has no universally accepted words for 'person I live with but am not married to', but partner is probably the commonest.

Liking and not liking someone core verb	positive	negative

like	love adore	dislike hate worship	idolise /'aɪdəleɪz/	can't stand loathe /ləʊð/respect	look up to admire	look down on despise attract	be attracted to fancy	repel leave someone cold

She doesn't just like Bob she idolises him. I can't stand him.

I really fancy Lisa, but her friend just leaves me cold / doesn't do anything for me. [more colloquial]

Stages in a person's education

Here are some names that are used to describe the different types of education in Britain.

play school/group nursery school /'nɜːsɪrɪ/	pre-school (2–5 years old)	mostly play with some early learning infant school junior school	primary (5/6–12/13)	basic reading, writing, arithmetic, art, etc.
comprehensive school or grammar school sixth form college (16–18)	secondary (12/13–16/18)	wide range of subjects in arts and sciences and technical areas college or university	further/higher (18+)	degrees/diplomas in specialised academic areas

Comprehensive schools in the UK are open to all and are for all abilities. You can only get into a grammar school by competitive entry (an exam). Public schools in the UK are very famous private schools. Colleges include teacher-training colleges, technical colleges and general colleges of further education.

Exams and qualifications take/do/sit an exam resit an exam (take it again because you did badly first time) pass (get the minimum grade or more) / do well in (get a high grade) an exam fail (you do not get the minimum grade) / do badly in (you fail, or don't do as well as expected / as well as you wanted) an exam

Before an exam it's a good idea to revise for it. If you skip classes/lectures, you'll probably do badly in the exam. [informal; miss deliberately]

Some schools give pupils tests regularly to check their progress. The school-leaving exams are held in May/June. In England, these are called GCSEs (age 16) and A-levels (age 18). In some schools, colleges and universities, instead of tests and exams there is continuous assessment with marks, e.g. 65%, or grades, e.g. A, B+, for essays and projects during the term. If you pass your university exams, you graduate /'grædʒəet/ (get a degree), then you're a graduate /'grædʒəet/ and you may want to go on to a post-graduate course.

Talking about education

In colleges and universities, there are usually lectures (large classes listening to the teacher and taking notes), seminars (10–20 students actively taking part in discussion etc.) and tutorials (one student or a small group, working closely with a teacher).

A professor is a senior university academic who is a well-known specialist in his/her subject. University and college teachers are usually called lecturers or tutors.

What's the school-leaving age?

The words, city and town, are sometimes used interchangeably but a city is generally large with a wider range of facilities. This is a description of Cork, one of Ireland's main cities. Which words or phrases might be useful for describing your own or another town?

Cork city is the major metropolis of the south; indeed with a population of about 135,000 it is the second largest city in the Republic. The main business and shopping centre of the town lies on the island created by two channels of the River Lee, with most places within walking distance of the centre. (The buses tend to be overcrowded and the one-way traffic system is fiendishly complicated.) In the hilly area of the city is the famous Shandon Steeple, the bell-tower of St Anne's Church, built on the site of a church destroyed when the city was besieged by the Duke of Marlborough. Back across the River Lee lies the city's cathedral, an imposing 19th century building in the French Gothic style. Cork has two markets. Neither caters specifically for tourists but those who enjoy the atmosphere of a real working market will appreciate their charm. The Crawford Art Gallery is well worth a visit. It regularly mounts adventurous exhibitions by contemporary artists. The fashionable residential districts of Cork city overlook the harbour. There are other residential areas on the outskirts.

Here are some of the facilities that you might find in a town.

Sports: swimming pool sports centre golf course tennis courts football pitch skating rink

Cultural: theatre opera house concert hall radio station art gallery

Educational: school college university library adult education centre museum

Catering, accommodation and night-life: restaurant nightclub take-away hotel

B & B (bed and breakfast) youth hostel disco estate agency housing estate

Transport: bus service taxi rank car hire car park parking meters

Other: health centre law courts registry office citizens' advice bureau job centre bottle bank department store chemist's garden centre police station

Town or City Hall suburbs industrial estate

problem	effect	cause
traffic jams	traffic very slow commuters get very stressed	too much traffic especially in the rush-hour slums	housing in a bad condition	poverty – people don't have money to spend on housing vandalism	pointless destruction of property	poverty, lack of hope overcrowding	difficult living conditions	too many people living in one place pollution	deterioration in health	traffic and industrial crime	See Unit 61	poverty, inequality

Here are some useful adjectives for describing towns: picturesque, historic, spacious, elegant, magnificent, atmospheric, quaint, lively, hectic, deserted (e.g. at night), bustling, crowded, packed, filthy, run-down, shabby

TIP

Find some information about your own town or area written for English speaking visitors. Make a note of any useful vocabulary that you find in it.

They have developed a marvellous range of tool-using skills, and have been able to adapt to both forest and savannah regions in central and western Africa. monarchy: a state ruled by a king or queen (e.g. UK, Sweden) federation: a union of political units (e.g. provinces) under a central government (e.g. USA) democracy: government of, by and for the people dictatorship: system of government run by a dictator independence: freedom from outside control; self-governing

Presidential and parliamentary government (US and UK)

United States

Presidential government: The powers of the President and the legislature (Congress) are separate. These branches of government are elected separately.

The President is elected for a four-year term and can appoint or nominate high officials in government, including cabinet members (who advise) and federal judges. The President leads a major party, usually, but not always, the majority party in Congress.

Congress consists of two houses, the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Congressmen or women and Senators are elected for fixed terms.

The judiciary is a separate branch. The Supreme Court, the highest court, can overrule the President and Congress.

United Kingdom

Parliamentary government: The government consists of a legislature (Parliament) and a Cabinet of Ministers from the majority party in Parliament.

The Prime Minister is the head of the government and the leader of the majority party in the House of Commons, holding office while the party holds a majority. The Prime Minister selects high officials and heads the Cabinet.

Parliament consists of two chambers, the House of Commons and the House of Lords.

MPs are members of parliament elected from each constituency [geographical area] in the House of Commons.

The judiciary is independent but it cannot overrule the Prime Minister or Parliament.

The Highest Court consists of a group of Lords.

Parliamentary elections

During a general election each constituency has to choose which politician it wants as a representative. Usually there are several candidates to choose from. These candidates are all standing (or running) for Parliament. They present the policies that they represent. On polling day each citizen goes to the polling station and casts a vote by marking a cross on their ballot paper. The candidate who gets the majority of votes wins the seat. If the vote is very close, the constituency may be referred to as a marginal seat. If an MP dies in office, then there has to be a by(e)-election to replace him or her. The public can also occasionally vote in a referendum – a direct vote by the people on an important public issue.

Bill committed a crime when he robbed a bank. Someone witnessed the crime and told the police. The police charged him with bank robbery. They also accused his twin brother, Ben, of being his accomplice.

The case came to court and they were tried. The trial did not last very long. Bill and Ben both pleaded not guilty in court. Their lawyer did her best to defend them but the prosecuting lawyer produced a very strong case against them.

After brief deliberations, the jury passed verdict on them. They decided that Bill was guilty but Ben was innocent. The judge acquitted Ben of any involvement in the robbery but sentenced Bill to three years in prison. He also had to pay a large fine. Money – buying, selling and paying

Personal finance

Sometimes in a shop they ask you: 'How do you want to pay?'

You can answer: 'Cash. / By cheque. / By credit card.'

In a bank you usually have a current account, which is one where you pay in your salary and then withdraw money to pay your everyday bills. The bank sends you a regular bank statement telling you how much money has gone in and out of your account. You may also have a savings account where you deposit any extra money that you have and only take money out when you want to spend it on something special. If you spend more than you have in your account you can have an overdraft. The bank allows you to spend more and charges you interest. If your account is overdrawn [you have taken more out of your account than you had in it] you are in the red (as opposed to in the black or in credit).

Sometimes the bank may lend you money – this is called a bank loan. If the bank [or building society] lends you money to buy a house, that money is called a mortgage ['mɔ:ɡɪdʒ].

When you buy [or purchase more formally] something in a shop, you usually pay for it outright but sometimes you buy on credit. Sometimes you may be offered a discount or a reduction on something you buy. For example, you might get £10 off perhaps because you are a student. You are often offered a discount if you buy in bulk. It is not usual to haggle about prices in a British shop, as it is in, say, a Turkish market. If you want to return something which you have bought to a shop, you may be given a refund, i.e. your money will be returned, provided you have a receipt.

The money that you pay for services, e.g. to a school or a lawyer, is usually called a fee or fees; the money paid for a journey is a fare. If you buy something that you feel was very good value, it's a bargain. If you feel that it is definitely not worth what you paid for it, then you can call it a rip-off [very colloquial].

Public finance

The government collects money from citizens through taxes. Income tax is the tax collected on wages and salaries. Inheritance tax is collected on what people inherit from others. Customs or excise duties have to be paid on goods imported from other countries. VAT or value added tax is a tax paid on most goods and services when they are bought or purchased. Companies pay corporation tax on their profits. If you pay too much tax, you should be given some money back, a tax rebate.

The government also sometimes pays out money to people in need, e.g. unemployment benefit [also known as the dole, informal] disability allowances and student loans [money lent to help pay for studying]. Recipients draw a pension / unemployment benefit or are on the dole or on social security.

Every country has its own special currency. Every day the rates of exchange are published and you can discover, for example, how many dollars there are currently to the pound sterling.

A company may sell shares to members of the public who are then said to have invested in that company. They should be paid a regular dividend on their investment, depending on the profit or loss made by the company.

Like, dislike and desire

Words and expressions relating to liking

Dear Anna,

It was great to hear from you after so many years. Fancy you already being married with a baby! I'm not married but I do have a boyfriend called Tom, I must tell you about him. We've known each other for three years. I quite liked Tom when we first met. However, although lots of my friends said they found him attractive, I didn't fancy him at all. He invited me out and I admit that I was more tempted by his sports car than by him at first. However, I really enjoyed spending time with him. He fascinated me with his stories of his travels around the world and something mysterious about this past also attracted me. Moreover, we were both very keen on sailing. Soon I realised I had fallen in love with him. His sense of humour really appealed to me and I was also captivated by his smiling eyes. Now, three years later I absolutely adore him and I can't understand why I didn't fall for him the moment we first set eyes on each other. He's a very caring person, fond of animals and small children. He's always affectionate and loving towards me and passionate both about me and about the causes he believes in and the people he cares for. I hope we'll always worship each other as much and be as devoted to our life together as we are now. Do write again soon and tell me all about how you are!

Love Jude

Words and expressions relating to disliking

Loathe, detest, despise, hate, cannot stand and cannot bear are all stronger ways of saying dislike and they are all followed by a noun or an -ing form.

Repel, revolt, appal and disgust are all strong words used to describe the effect which something detested has on the person affected. His paintings disgust me. I was revolted by the way he spoke. We were appalled by the conditions in the refugee camp. His behaviour repels everyone.

Yearn for is a more poetic way of saying long for. He will never stop yearning for his country although he knows he can never return.

Ways of addressing loved ones

dearest sweetheart darling love dear pet

Pet is used mainly to children. Note that the last three words in the list are not confined to use with people who are really loved. It is not uncommon for a London bus conductor, for example, to address any girl or woman as 'love'. (His Glasgow equivalent calls his female passengers 'hen'.) It's best for you, however, to keep such words for people you have a close relationship with!

NOTE

After looking forward, 'to' is a preposition and not part of the infinitive and is followed by a noun or an -ing form.

The five senses are sight, hearing, taste, touch and smell. Taste

Idioms are fixed expressions with meanings that are usually not clear or obvious. For example, the expression to feel under the weather, which means 'to feel unwell' is a typical idiom. The words do not tell us what it means, but the context usually helps.

Tips for remembering idioms

Think of idioms as units, just like single words; always record the whole phrase in your notebook, along with information on grammar and collocation.

This tin-opener has seen better days. [it is rather old and broken down; usually of things. always perfect tense form]

Idioms are usually rather informal and include a personal comment on the situation. They are sometimes humorous or ironic. As with any informal words, be careful how you use them. Never use them just to sound 'fluent' or 'good at English'. In a formal situation with a person you do not know, don't say,

'How do you do, Mrs Watson, Do take the weight off your feet.' [sit down].
Instead say 'Do sit down' or 'Have a seat'.

Idioms can be grouped in a variety of ways. Use whichever way you find most useful to help you remember them. Here are some possible types of grouping.

By grammar

get the wrong end of the stick [misunderstand]	}	verb + object pull a fast one [trick/deceive somebody] poke your nose in(to) [interfere] be over the moon [extremely happy/elated]	}	verb + prepositional phrase feel down in the dumps [depressed/low] be in the red [have a negative bank balance]

By meaning e.g. idioms describing people's character/intellect

He's as daft as a brush. [very stupid/silly]

He takes the biscuit. [is the extreme / the worst of all]

You're a pain in the neck. [a nuisance / difficult person]

By verb or other key word e.g. idioms with make

Why do you have to make a meal out of everything? [exaggerate the importance of everything]

I think we should make a move. It's gone ten o'clock. [go/leave]

Most politicians are on the make. I don't trust any of them. [wanting money/power for oneself]

Grammar of idioms

It is important when using idioms to know just how flexible their grammar is. Some are more fixed than others. For instance, barking up the wrong tree [be mistaken] is always used in continuous, not simple form, e.g. I think you're barking up the wrong tree. (Not I think you bark up the wrong tree.)

A good dictionary may help, but it is best to observe the grammar in real examples.

Note how Units 82–87 group idioms in different ways.

Exercises

- 6 His father was a gambler too. He's a real chip off the old [just like one's parents/grandparents]
- 7 I wasn't really sure; I guessed it; it was just a in the dark. [a wild guess]

- 78.2 Use a good dictionary or a dictionary of idioms to see if it can help you decide which version of these sentences is correct for the idiom concerned, as in the example. Check the meaning too, if you are not sure.

Everyday expressions

Everyday spoken language is full of fixed expressions that are not necessarily difficult to understand but which have a fixed form which does not change. These have to be learnt as whole expressions. These expressions are often hard to find in dictionaries, so it is important to be on the lookout for them.

Conversation-building expressions

These are some common expressions that help to modify or organise what we are saying. There are many more expressions like these. (See also Units 27 & 28.)

Follow-up: Make a list of common expressions like the ones in this unit in your language. How do you say them in English?

As ... as

As ... as similes are easy to understand. If you see the phrase as dead as a doornail, you don't need to know what a doornail is, simply that the whole phrase means 'totally dead'. But, remember fixed similes are usually informal/colloquial and often humorous. Those marked * are derogatory. Use all these expressions with care and keep them generally as part of your receptive vocabulary.

Creating a picture in your mind can often help you remember the simile:

as blind as a bat*

as thin as a rake*

as strong as an ox

as quiet as a mouse

Some can be remembered as pairs of opposites.

as heavy as lead ≠ as light as a feather as drunk as a lord* ≠ as sober as a judge as black as night ≠ as white as snow [particularly used in fairy tales]

Some can be remembered by sound patterns.

as brown as a berry as good as gold [this is used about children's behaviour]
as cool as a cucumber as busy as a bee

Some other useful as ... as phrases.

The bed was as hard as iron and I couldn't sleep.

I'll give this plant some water. The soil's dry as a bone.

He's as mad as a hatter*. He crossed the Atlantic in a bathtub.

She told the teacher, as bold as brass, that his lessons were boring.

You'll have to speak slowly and clearly; he's as deaf as a post*.

Don't worry. Using the computer's as easy as falling off a log.

She knew the answer as quick as a flash.

When I told him, his face went as red as a beetroot.

Sometimes the second part can change the meaning of the first.

My plan worked like a dream, and the problem was soon solved.

Be careful the boss doesn't see you; she has eyes like a hawk.

Binomials

Binomials are expressions (often idiomatic) where two words are joined by a conjunction (usually 'and'). The order of the words is usually fixed. For example:

odds and ends: small, unimportant things, e.g. Let's get the main things packed; we can do the odds and ends later. (We cannot say 'ends and odds'.)

give and take: a spirit of compromise, e.g. Every relationship needs a bit of give and take to be successful.

You can often tell something is a binomial because of the sound pattern.

Tears are part and parcel of growing up. [part of / belong to]

The boss was ranting and raving at us. [shouting / very angry]

The old cottage has gone to rack and ruin. [ruined/decayed]

He's so prim and proper at work. [rather formal and fussy]

The hotel was a bit rough and ready. [poor standard]

She has to wine and dine important clients. [entertain]

Other times, the clue is that the words are near-synonyms.

You can pick and choose; it's up to you. [have a wide choice]

My English is progressing in leaps and bounds. [big jumps]

It's nice to have some peace and quiet. [peace/calm]

The doctor recommended some rest and recreation / R and R. [relaxation]

First and foremost, you must work hard. [first / most importantly]

Many grammar words combine to form binomials.

There are cafés here and there. [scattered round]

We've had meetings on and off. [occasionally]

I've been running back and forth all day. [to and from somewhere]

To and fro can be used just like back and forth.

He is unemployed and down and out. [without a home or money]

She's better now, and out and about again. [going out]

She ran up and down the street. [in both directions]

Your language probably has many binomials. Make sure those which look similar in English have the same word order as your language. These four are very neutral binomials and can be used in formal or informal situations. Try translating them.

A black and white film, please. Ladies and gentlemen, your attention, please!

She ran back and forth. There was hot and cold water in every room.

Binomials linked by words other than and.

You've got your sweater on back to front. [the wrong way]

He won't help her; she'll have to sink or swim. [survive or fail]

Slowly but surely, I realised the boat was sinking. [gradually]

Sooner or later, you'll learn your lesson. [some time/day]

She didn't want to be just friends; it had to be all or nothing.

Well I'm sorry, that's all I can offer you; take it or leave it.

It's about the same distance as from here to Dublin, give or take a few miles. [perhaps a mile or two more, or a mile or two less]

Exercises

- 81.1 Here is a list of words that can combine to form binomials (some are from the left-hand page and some are new). Using similarities in sound, join them with and. Then check opposite or in a dictionary that you have the right word order and meaning.

prim dine high ruin rough dry rack ready proper sound safe wine

Now use them to fill the gaps in these sentences.

- I was left and, with no-one to help me.
- The room's a bit and, but you're welcome to stay as long as you like.
- I'm glad you're and after such a dangerous journey.
- My hosts and me at the best restaurants.
- Our old house in the country has just gone to and; nobody looks after it now.

					clocks	after	whisper	order
					then	dogs	scratch	heart
					choose	flowers	miss	chase

87.4 Which idioms do these drawings suggest?

Follow-up: Look up idioms under other parts of the body, for example, tongue, heels, toe, back, and make a note of examples.

Speakers tend to use proverbs to comment on a situation, often at the end of a true story someone has told, or in response to some event. Like all idiomatic expressions, they are useful and enjoyable to know and understand, but should be used with care.

Warnings/advice/morals – dos and don'ts proverb

Don't count your chickens before they are hatched.

Don't put all your eggs in one basket.

Never judge a book by its cover.

Never look a gift-horse in the mouth.

Take care of the pence and the pounds will take care of themselves.

paraphrase

Don't anticipate the future too much.

Don't invest all your efforts, or attention in just one thing.

Don't judge people/things by their outward appearance.

Never refuse good fortune when it is there in front of you.

Take care of small sums of money and they will become large sums.

Key elements

Proverbs can be grouped by key elements, for example, animals and birds.

When the cat's away, the mice will play. [people will take advantage of someone else's absence to behave more freely]

You can lead a horse to water but you can't make it drink. [you can try to persuade someone, but you can't force them]

One swallow doesn't make a summer. [one positive sign does not mean that all will be well. A swallow is a very fast-flying bird that returns to Britain in late spring]

Visualising

As with learning all vocabulary, visualising some element often helps.

There's no smoke without fire. or Where there's smoke, there's fire. [rumours are usually based on some degree of truth]

People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones. [don't criticise others' faults if you suffer from them yourself]

Too many cooks spoil the broth. [too many people interfering is a bad way of doing things]

Many hands make light work. [a lot of people helping makes a job easier]

88.1 Find proverbs on the left-hand page that fit these situations.

EXAMPLE Someone says they have just been offered a free two-week holiday, but are hesitating whether to take up the offer. Never look a gift-horse in the mouth.

- 1 Someone thanks you and your friends for helping to load heavy boxes into a van.
- 2 Someone says they can't be bothered applying to different universities and will just apply to one.
- 3 Three different people have made different arrangements for the same meeting, and so everyone comes at different times and the result is total confusion.

88.2 Some proverbs are similar in meaning. Which proverbs on the left go with which on the right, and what do they have in common in terms of meaning?

1 A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.	Never judge a book by its cover.
2 Don't count your chickens before they are hatched.	Familiarity breeds contempt.
3 All that glitters is not gold.	Never look a gift-horse in the mouth.
4 Absence makes the heart grow fonder.	Don't cross your bridges before you come to them.

88.3 People often refer to proverbs by only saying half of them and leaving the rest for the listener to 'fill in'. Complete the proverbs in these dialogues.

- 1 A: Joel's always criticising people who are selfish, yet he's terribly selfish himself.
B: Yes, well, people who live in glass houses ...
C: Exactly.
- 2 A: The people in the office have been playing computer games all day since the boss fell ill.
B: Well, you know what they say: when the cat's away ...
A: Right, and they're currently doing that.
- 3 A: I didn't believe those rumours about Nick and Gill, but apparently they are seeing each other.
B: You shouldn't be so naive, you know what they say, where there's smoke ..., eh?
A: Mm, I suppose you're right.
- 4 A: Amazing, he's made a fortune from just one little shop!
B: Well, I think it's a case of take care of the pence ...
A: Sure, he's always been very careful with his money.

Follow-up: Try translating some proverbs from your language, word for word into English. Then, if you can, ask a native speaker if they recognise any English proverb as having the same or similar meaning.

The next seven units deal with phrasal verbs and other expressions based on common verbs. Phrasal verbs are basic verbs which can combine with different prepositions (or particles) to make verbs with completely new – and often unguessable – meanings. Similarly, make out can mean 'claim', 'manage to see' and 'understand' as well as 'write' or 'complete'; make up can mean 'compose' or 'invent'; it can also mean 'constitute' or 'form', 'put cosmetics on', 'prepare by mixing together various ingredients' and 'make something more numerous or complete'.

There are a lot of other common expressions based on do and make. Note that most expressions referring to work or duty use do whereas those which lead to an end product (e.g. tea, a cake, a noise, a toy boat, a profit, a noise) use make.

You do: the housework / some gardening / the washing up / homework / your best / the shopping / the cooking / business with ... , and so on.

You make: arrangements / an agreement / a suggestion / a decision / a cup of tea / war / an attempt / a phone call / the best of ... / an effort / an excuse / a mistake / a profit / a loss / love / the most of / a noise / a good or bad impression / a success of ... / a point of ... / allowances for ... / a gesture / a face / fun of ... / a fuss of ... / a go (a success) of ... , and so on.

- 4 Although the turnout for the meeting was not large ...
- 5 He felt terribly let down when ...
- 6 She didn't turn up ...
- 7 I'm afraid we've run out ...
- 8 He asked if I could see my way ...

- 94.4 Answer the questions below.

- 1 Have you ever turned down an offer or invitation that you later regretted?
- 2 Have you ever had problems because of something (a vehicle or a piece of equipment, perhaps) breaking down at an inconvenient time? What happened?
- 3 Who really runs the country, in your opinion?
- 4 Have you done anyone a good turn today? If so, what did you do?
- 5 Which record would you most like to break?
- 6 Do you think it is possible for someone's heart to be broken?
- 7 Have you ever resolved to turn over a new leaf? In what way(s)?
- 8 Have you any particular jobs that you must see to today? If so, what?
- 9 Has your home ever been broken into? What happened?
- 10 Have you looked anything up in a reference book today? What did you look for?

- 94.5 The expressions opposite are only some of many expressions using these six verbs.

Can you think of two other phrasal verbs or other idiomatic expressions using each of the verbs? If you can't, look up the base verbs in a dictionary and see what you can find.

Formal and informal words (I)

- (!) Formality is all about your relationship with the person you're speaking or writing to. If you use formal language, it may be because you wish to show respect, politeness, or to put yourself at a distance (for example, 'official' language). Informal language can show friendliness, equality or a feeling of closeness and solidarity with someone. You should never use informal language just to sound fluent or clever.

Scales of formality

Some groups of words can be put on a scale from formal to neutral to informal.

formal	neutral	informal
offspring	children	kids
abode/residence	house/flat	place
goodbye	bye-bye	bye or cheerio alcoholic beverages	drink	booze go amiss	go wrong	go pear-shaped

Short, monosyllabic informal words

Informal versions of words are often short and monosyllabic, as we can see in the right-hand column in the table above. They include slang words. (Unit 96 has more examples.)

It cost me ten quid. [pounds] I'll help you peel the spuds. [potatoes]
 My bike's been stolen. [bicycle] Come and meet my Mum and Dad. [mother and father]
 I always go by tube. [word used for the London Underground]
 Hi! Can't stop; see you, bye! [hello; goodbye] I'll get a cab from the station. [taxi]

Clippings

Shortening a word tends to make it less formal, as in bye in B.

I'll meet you in the lab(oratory). What's on telly tonight? [television]
 We should put an ad(vertisement) / an advert(isement) in the (news)paper.
 Shall I (tele)phone them? Her sister's a vet(erinary surgeon).
 Can I use your mobile (phone)?

Formality in notices, instructions, etc.

You will often see rather formal words in signs, notices and directions. Make sure you know the meaning of the words used so that you could tell someone what the notice says using less formal words.

THIS PUBLIC HOUSE IS CLOSED UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE.

We regret we cannot accept cheques.

Articles deposited must be paid for in advance.

Do not address the driver unless the bus is stationary.

DO NOT ALIGHT
WHILE THE BUS IS IN MOTION.

Tickets must be purchased before boarding the train.

TIP

If you ask someone to explain a new word, also ask them if it is formal, informal or neutral.

Exercises

- 95.1 If you look up an informal word in a monolingual dictionary, you will often find a neutral equivalent as part of the definition or explanation. For example, the Cambridge International Dictionary of English entry for kid says: 'infml a child or young person.'

Use a monolingual dictionary to find neutral or more formal words for these:

1 kip 2 a pal 3 a chap 4 swot 5 ta! 6 brainy

- 95.2 Make this conversation more informal by changing some of the words. Refer to the left-hand page if necessary.

JIM: Annie, can you lend me five pounds?

ANNIE: What for?

JIM: Well, I have to go and visit my mother and father, and my bicycle's not working, so I'll have to take a taxi.

ANNIE: Can't you telephone them and say you can't come?

JIM: Well, I could, except I want to go because they always have lots of food, and the refrigerator at our flat is empty, as usual.

ANNIE: Can't you go by Underground?

JIM: Erm ...

ANNIE: Anyway, the answer's no.

- 95.3 Say whether you feel the following remarks/sentences are OK, too formal or too informal for each situation described. If the remark/sentence is unsuitable, suggest what the person might say instead.

- (Teenage boy to teenage girl at disco): D'you fancy an appointment one night next week?
- (Parent to another parent at a school parents' meeting): How many offspring do you have at the school?
- (Dinner-guest to host/hostess): No thanks, I never consume alcoholic beverages when I'm driving.
- (Student to university professor): Will there be lab demonstrations next week?
- (Business letter to a newspaper office): Dear Sir/Madam,
I should like to enquire about the current charges for ads in your newspaper.
My company is considering ..., etc.

- 95.4 Mini-quiz: Find words on the left-hand page for the following.

- The opposite of stationary.
- The opposite of to board.
- a) to be sorry b) to buy c) to speak to
- Informal versions of Greetings! and Farewell!

- 95.5 Express these notices in neutral or informal language.

CHILDREN ARE REQUESTED NOT TO DEPOSIT LITTER IN THE PLAY AREA.

Expenses can only be reimbursed upon production of dated receipts.

(See also Units 96 and 100 for other informal and formal words and expressions.)

Formal and informal words (2)

- (R) This unit looks at very informal or slang words. Slang is extremely colloquial language. Slang helps to make speech vivid, colourful and interesting but it can easily be used inappropriately. Although slang is mainly used in speech, it is also often found in the popular press.

Using slang appropriately

- (!) Remember, it can be risky for someone who is not a native speaker to use slang. Firstly because some slang expressions may cause offence to some sections of the population. For example, most policemen are quite happy to be referred to as coppers but are offended by the term pigs. Similarly, you could probably use the word sozzled (meaning drunk) in front of anyone but using the words, pissed or arseholed, which also mean drunk, could upset some people.

Secondly, slang words date very quickly. Different generations, for instance, have used different slang expressions to say that something was 'wonderful'.

pre-war: top-hole	1970s: ace , cosmic
1940s: wizard	1980s: brill , wicked
1960s: fab , groovy	1990s: cool , class

It can be possible to work out a native speaker's age from the expressions which they use as people tend to stick with the slang expressions of their youth.

Some common slang words and expressions

The words and expressions which are most likely to cause offence are underlined.

Expressions for money: dough bread dosh loot brass readies

Expressions for the police: pigs fuzz cop(pers) bill

Expressions for drunk: pissed pie-eyed paralytic legless arseholed

Expressions for a stupid person: wally prat wanker jerk dickhead plonker pillock dork clueless out-to-lunch doesn't know his arse from his elbow

Expressions for lavatory: loo lav bog john Expressions for drink: booze plonk (wine) a bevv

Drug-related expressions: a fix dope grass high stoned snow (heroin)

Prison-related expressions: nick (prison) nark (informer) screw (warder)

(C) Slang is often used by one particular group and is unintelligible to other people. Here are some examples from American truck-drivers using CB radio to talk to each other.

grandma lane: slow lane five finger discount: stolen goods super cola: beer doughnuts: tyres anklebiters: children affirmative: yes motion lotion: fuel eyeballs: headlights

TIP If you are interested in slang, you can find more examples in films or in the tabloid press but it is probably safest to keep it in your passive rather than your active vocabulary.

Exercises

- 96.1 Replace the slang words which are underlined in the sentences below with more formal equivalents. If the meaning is not given opposite, then it should be possible to guess what it is. Notice that some of the words have a slang meaning which is different from their everyday meaning.

- The newsreader on TV last night seemed to be pissed as he was reading the news.
- He's quite a nice geezer really.
- I've got a terrible belly ache – I think I'd better make an appointment with the quack.
- Are you and Pat an item?
- Can you lend me some dosh till tomorrow?
- I know there'll be plenty of nosh but do we need to take some booze to the party?
- The footballer said he was gutted by the result.
- I'm dying for a cuppa. I haven't had one since breakfast.
- Can I use your loo, please?
- I was absolutely gobsmacked when she told me she was leaving.

- 96.2 Match the statements on the left with the responses to them on the right.

1 How was the party?	Let's take him home.
2 What does that guy over there do?	Sure. I'll keep my eyes skinned.
3 He's getting legless.	He's in the nick.
4 Keep a lookout for the pigs.	It's in a drawer, over here.
5 Where's the dough?	He's a cop.
6 Where's her hubby?	Let's borrow dad's wheels and go for a spin.
7 What'll we do tomorrow?	Cool!

- 96.3 A particular well-known kind of slang is Cockney rhyming slang where an expression is used in place of something that it rhymes with.

EXAMPLE trouble and strife = wife apples and pears = stairs

How would you translate the Cockney rhyming slang expressions in the sentences below?

- Let's have a butcher's (short for butcher's hook) at your homework.
- Just look at those Gawd forbids playing football!
- It's on the Cain and Abel next to the phone.
- What a set of Hampstead Heath!
- She'll get him to the lean and lurch by hook or by crook.
- Have you seen my titfer? (short for tit for tat)

- 96.4 Another common way of making slang words is by using short forms or loosely pronounced forms of ordinary words. Thus fab is a slang form of 'fabulous' and hubby is a slang form of 'husband'. Can you work out the meanings of the following underlined slang words?

- 1 Let's have brekkie.

- 2 He's a brickie.

- 3 Let's have a barbie.

English in the USA differs considerably from British English. Pronunciation is the most striking difference but there are also a number of differences in vocabulary and spelling as well as slight differences in grammar. Yet, on the whole, speakers of British and American English have little difficulty in understanding each other.

American spelling is usually simpler. For example, British English words ending in -our and -re, end in -or and -er in American English, e.g. colour/color, centre/center. Words ending -ise in British English end in -ize in US English. There are differences in individual words too, e.g. British 'plough' becomes 'plow'.

Here are some common US words with their British equivalents.

Travel and on the street		In the home
American English	British English	American English	British English gasoline	petrol	antenna	aerial truck	lorry	elevator	lift
baggage	luggage	eraser	rubber sidewalk	pavement	apartment	flat crosswalk	zebra crossing	closet	wardrobe
line	queue	yard	garden
vacation	holiday	drapes	curtains
parking lot	car park	flashlight	torch
trunk (of car)	boot	kerosene	paraffin
hood (of car)	bonnet	Scotch tape	sellotape freeway/highway	motorway	cookie	biscuit round trip	return	candy	sweets
one way	single	bathroom, rest room	toilet, WC railway car	railway carriage	garbage, trash	rubbish engineer (on train)	engine driver	diaper	nappy
baby carriage	pram	pantihose	tights
subway	underground	french fries	chips

Note: the fall = autumn semester = term (academic) [semester is becoming more common in Britain.]

Here are some words and phrases which can cause confusion when used by Brits and Americans talking together because they mean something different in each 'language'.

Exercises

97.1 If you saw words spelt in the following way would you expect the writer in each case to be British or American? Why?

1 labor	3 hospitalized	5 favour
2 centre	4 a movie theater	6 thru

97.2 What are (a) the American and (b) the British words for the following things?

97.3 You are going on holiday to the States. Which of the words listed in C and D opposite do you think it would be most important for you to know? Which of the words would a person travelling with a baby might well need to know?

97.4 Translate the following into British English.

1 I had a blow-out.	6 Our bags are in the trunk.
2 Pass me the cookies.	7 One-way or round trip?
3 It's in the closet.	8 Buy a one-way ticket.
4 Open the drapes.	9 We're leaving in the fall.
5 We've run out of gas.	10 I hate waiting in line.

97.5 Can you avoid some of the most common confusions arising between British and American speakers? Try the following quiz.

- Where would you take (a) an American visitor (b) a British visitor who said they wanted to wash up – the kitchen or the bathroom?
- Which would surprise you more – an American or a British man telling you that he wanted to go and change his pants?
- You have just come into an unknown office block. If (a) an American (b) a Brit says that the office you need is on the second floor, how many flights of stairs do you need to climb?
- If (a) an American (b) a Brit asks for a bill, is he or she more likely to be in a bank or a café?
- Would a man wear a vest under or over his shirt (a) if he is British (b) if he is from the USA?

97.6 Do you know any other examples of American English? Make a list at an appropriate place in your vocabulary notebook or file.

See also Unit 98 for English in other parts of the world.

Other Englishes

US or American English (see Unit 97) is not the only special variety of English. Each area of the English-speaking world has developed its own special characteristics. This is usually mainly a matter of vocabulary and pronunciation. This unit just gives you a small taste of some of the different varieties of English by drawing your attention to vocabulary used in various English-speaking regions. You may come across many of the words covered in this unit in your own reading, listening or viewing.

Australian English

Australian English is particularly interesting for its rich store of highly colloquial words and expressions. Australian colloquialisms often involve shortening a word. Sometimes the ending '-ie' or '-o' is then added, e.g. a truckie is 'a truck or lorry-driver' and a milko delivers the milk; beaut, short for 'beautiful' means 'great' and biggie is 'a big one'. Oz is short for Australia and an Aussie is an Australian.

Indian English

Indian English, on the other hand, is characterised by sounding more formal than British English. It has retained, in everyday usage, words that are found more in the classics of nineteenth century literature than in contemporary TV programmes, e.g. The bereaved are condoled and the Prime Minister is felicitated on his or her birthday. An Indian might complain of a pain in his bosom (rather than his chest) and an Indian bandit is referred to as a miscreant.

Scottish English

Scottish English uses a number of special dialect words. Some of the more common of these are worth learning.

aye : yes	loch: lake	dreich: dull	ben: mountain	to mind: to remember janitor: caretaker	brae: bank (of river)	bairn: child	lassie: girl
dram: drink (usually whisky)	bonny: beautiful	outwith: outside glen: valley	burn: stream	wee: small	kirk: church	stay: live ken: know

Black English

Black English is the term used to refer to the English which originated in the Caribbean islands and is now also spoken in many parts of the UK, Canada and the USA. Listed below are some words which are characteristic of Black English but are also now used in other varieties of English. Many are particularly associated with the music world.

dreadlocks: Rastafarian hairstyle	beat: exhausted	chick: girl
dig: understand	jam: improvise	pad: bed
	rap: street-talk	square: dull

Exercises

98.1 What do you think these examples of Australian colloquialisms mean? They are all formed by abbreviating an English word which you probably know.

- 1 I'm exhausted – let's have a smoko!
- 2 She wants to be a journo when she leaves uni.
- 3 We got terribly bitten by mozzies at yesterday's barbie.
- 4 He's planning to do a bit of farming bizzo while he's in the States.
- 5 What are you doing this arvo?
- 6 We decided to have a party as the olds had gone away for the weekend.

98.2 The words on the left are more common in Indian English than British English. The words on the right are equivalent words more frequently used in British English. Match the Indian word with its British English equivalent.

1 abscond	catch (e.g. by police)
2 nab	man who annoys girls
3 bag (i.e. a seat in an election)	plimsolls, sneakers
4 Eve-teaser	underwear
5 car-lifter	flee
6 fleetfoots	people awaiting trial
7 undertrials	car-thief
8 wearunders	capture/obtain

98.3 Below you have some statements made by a Scot. Answer the questions about them.

- 1 Mary had a bonny wee lassie last night. What happened to Mary yesterday?
- 2 They stay next to the kirk. What noise is likely to wake them on Sunday mornings?
- 3 It's a bit dreich today. Is it good weather for a picnic?
- 4 He's got a new job as janitor at the school. What kind of duties will he have?
- 5 Would you like a wee dram? If you say 'yes', what will you get?
- 6 'Are you coming, Jim?' 'Aye.' Is Jim coming or isn't he?
- 7 They have a wonderful view of the loch from their window. What can they see from the window?

98.4 Answer the following questions relating to Black English.

- 1 Would you be pleased to be called square?
- 2 What does hair that is in dreadlocks look like?
- 3 When might you feel dead beat?
- 4 If musicians have a jam session, what do they do?

Follow-up: If you have access to the Internet, use a search engine to look up a variety of English that interests you, for example US English, Indian English, Singaporean English. What can you find out about it?

Headline English

Newspaper headlines try to catch the reader's eye by using as few words as possible. The language headlines use is, consequently, unusual in a number of ways.

- Grammar words like articles or auxiliary verbs are often left out, e.g. EARLY CUT FORECAST IN INTEREST RATES
- A simple form of the verb is used, e.g. MAYOR OPENS HOSPITAL
- The infinitive is used to express the fact that something is going to happen in the future. e.g. PRESIDENT TO VISIT FLOOD AREAS

Newspaper headlines use a lot of distinctive vocabulary. They usually prefer words that are shorter and sound more dramatic than ordinary English words. The words marked * can be used either as nouns or verbs.

newspaper word	meaning	newspaper word	meaning aid*	help	key (adj.)	essential, vital axe*	cut, remove	link*	connection
back (verb)	support	move*	step towards a desired end bar*	exclude, forbid	ordeal (noun)	painful experience bid*	attempt	oust (verb)	push out / remove blast*	explosion	plea (noun)	request
blaze*	fire	pledge*	promise boost*	incentive, encourage	ploy (noun)	clever activity

drama	tense situation	talks (noun)	discussions drive*	campaign, effort	threat	danger
gems (noun)	jewels	vow*	promise go-ahead	approval	wed (verb)	marry
hit (verb)	affect badly

Newspaper headlines often use abbreviations, e.g. PM for Prime Minister, MP for Member of Parliament. (See Unit 16 for more abbreviations.)

Some newspapers also enjoy making jokes in their headlines. They do this by playing with words or punning, e.g. a wet open air concert in London by the opera singer Luciano Pavarotti was described as:

TORRENTIAL RAIN IN MOST ARIAS ['most areas']

An announcement that a woman working at the Mars chocolate company had got an interesting new job was:

WOMAN FROM MARS TO BE FIRST BRITON IN SPACE

(Note that the word 'Briton' is almost exclusively found in newspapers.)

99.3 The words marked * in the table opposite can be either nouns or verbs. Note that the meaning given is sometimes in the form of a noun. In the headlines below you have examples of words from the table used as verbs. Look at the underlined verbs and explain what they mean. You may need to use more than one word.

EXAMPLE PM TO CURB SPENDING limit

- 1 BOOK LINKS M15 WITH KGB

5 Price curbs

2 Teenage £4m

4 Royal family quits

6 WOMEN BARRED

Follow-up: Look through some English language newspapers and find some examples of headlines illustrating the points made on the opposite page. Beside each headline make a note of what the accompanying story is about. Try to find some examples of amusing headlines.

The language of signs and notices

Signs and notices in English often use words and expressions that are rarely seen in other contexts. Look at the signs and notices below with their 'translations' into more everyday English.

If you are in or go to visit an English-speaking country, make a collection in your vocabulary book of any notices that you see.

Exercises

100.1 Where would you expect to see each of the notices on the opposite page?

EXAMPLE 1 on a bus.

100.2 Match each of the words on the left with their meanings from the list on the right.

1 to prosecute	a young person under the age of 18
2 a penalty	to get off a bicycle or a horse
3 a purchase	to bring a legal case against
4 a trespasser	not to do something
5 to refrain	to forbid something

3 Nothing to declare	7 FISHING STRICTLY PROHIBITED	11 These seats are appreciated by the old and infirm
4 Clearance sale starts today	8 Cycles for hire or sale

100.4 What notice would a café-owner put up if they wanted to:

- 1 indicate that their café was now open for coffee?
- 2 let people know that the café staff can speak Spanish?
- 3 stop people from smoking in their café?
- 4 let people know that they can buy free-range eggs there too?
- 5 ask people not to fix notices on to their wall?
- 6 tell people that they could rent rooms there overnight?

Follow-up: Look at the notices in your own language that you see around you every day. How would they be expressed in English? Try to find out, if they are not included in this unit.

Key

Many of your answers will depend on your own particular interests and needs. It is only possible for the key to suggest answers in some cases.

Unit 1

A 1 d 2 b 3 b 4 a

5 the most common twenty words in written English are (in order starting with the most frequent): the, of, to, in, and, a, for, was, is, that, on, at, he, with, by, be, it, an, at, his; and in spoken English: the, and, I, to, of, a, you, that, in, it, is, yes, was, this, but, on, well, he, have, for (Source: David Crystal, The Cambridge Encyclopedia of Language, second edition, CUP, 1997, p. 86.)

B 1 Some possible answers:

- a) a royal palace, the royal family
 - b) to dissuade someone from doing something
 - c) a popular king / to crown a king
 - d) up to my ears in work
 - e) independent of someone / an independent country
 - f) get married to someone
- 2 a) scissors – only used in plural; if you want to count scissors, you have to say, for example, 'two pairs of scissors'.
b) weather – uncountable
c) teach, taught, taught; teach someone to do something; teach someone French.
d) advice – uncountable; a piece of advice; verb = to advise (regular).
e) lose, lost, lost (irregular)
f) trousers – only used in plural; if you want to count trousers you have to say, for example, 'three pairs of trousers'.
- 3 a) The 'b' in subtle is silent, as it is in comb, tomb and lamb too.
b) The final 'e' in catastrophe is pronounced as a syllable as it is in apostrophe. Catastrophe has 4 syllables. (See Index for pronunciation)
c) The stress is on the first syllable in photograph, and on the second syllable in photographer; it is on the third syllable in photographical. The 'rule' is that the stress in long words in English very frequently falls on the third syllable from the end of the word.
d) The 'w' in answer is silent. The final syllable is a schwa sound and the 'r' is not usually pronounced in standard British English, unless it is followed by a vowel, e.g. Answer all the questions ...
- 4 guys is informal, persons is formal (most commonly found in legal documents) and people is neutral
- 5 Some useful phrases from the text:
periods of contact, foreign languages, sets of words, add greatly to, to express (subtle) shades of meaning.
If you have included other phrases from the text that seem useful to you, then that is fine too.

D Research into language learning can help you to prepare a sensible vocabulary learning plan. What you plan to do will, of course, depend very much on your own circumstances.

You cannot realistically aim to learn as many new words a day if you are working a full day at something else as if you are doing a full-time English course. In general, however, 10 to 20 words a week is probably a reasonable aim.

It does not matter where you try to learn vocabulary but it seems to be better to do a little on a regular basis rather than a lot infrequently. Research also suggests that it is a good idea to revise your work on a very regular basis – once a week, perhaps, but do not revise only the words that you've learnt in that week. Look back over your work of the previous month(s).

Unit 2

- A 1 The network could be completed and added to like this:

- 2 a) Child, tooth and mouse are all words with irregular plurals (children, teeth, mice). You could add more examples, e.g. foot (feet); goose (geese); ox (oxen); phenomenon (phenomena).

- b) Information, furniture and luggage are all uncountable nouns – you could add milk, money and work to this group.

- 3 Possible words and expressions to add:

- a) pricey, underpriced, price tag, underhand, etc. b) to lend someone a hand, a handful; a handbag, a handout, etc.

Unit 3

- 3.1 The list is probably connected to a lesson or lessons about time or a text about someone's relationship with time. A possible organisation might include bringing the clock words together in a word-map or bubble diagram (clock, wristwatch, hands, minute-hand); other words could then be added later (hour-hand, face/dial, digital, etc.).

Tell the time and What time do you make it? could form a separate list of 'time phrases'. to which others could be added, e.g. Have you got the time?, My watch is fast/slow, etc. Drowsy and wide awake could be treated as antonyms, and some notes about the usage of beneath and under would be useful. This list could have information about word-class too.

- 3.2 Theatre seems the obvious word.

- 3.3 Other testing systems include re-entering any word you have difficulty remembering, so that it appears more than once in the notebook. Another useful discipline is to set yourself a fixed number of words to memorise each week, e.g. 20, and to tick them off in the book as you do them. You could also take out any 10 words from your book and put them on individual slips of paper which you stick in prominent places around your room or house, e.g. on the fridge door, so that you are regularly looking at them.

- 3.4

production industry export	produce industrialise export	productive industrial export	producer industrialist exporter

Note the change in stress from export (noun or adjective) to export (verb) and exporter (person), e.g. Our export figures have increased; we exported 20% more goods last year.

Unit 4

Unit 5

- 5.1 Open any page in your dictionary and look at the first word at the top of the page. Do you know it? If not, read the definition or translation and write the word (without the definition or translation) in your notebook. One week later, look at your notebook and see if you can remember what the word meant. If not, look it up again.

To improve your reading of phonetics for pronunciation, take six words from anywhere in the dictionary and copy only the phonetic pronunciation into your notebook or to a separate sheet of paper. After one week, see if you can read what the original words were. If you can't, consult the list of pronunciation symbols in your dictionary.

- 5.2 1 All the words are possible. Some people feel that sofa and couch are a bit 'lower class', and that settee is the so-called 'refined, middle-class' word. Divan could also be used, but its normal British English meaning is a kind of bed with a very thick base. It can also, less commonly, mean a kind of sofa with no back or arms.
- 2 Luxury most typically collocates with yacht, though ketch (a double-masted sailing ship) would also be possible. A dinghy is a very small, open boat, hardly suitable for going around the world. Sailing boat sounds just too general here, since it covers all types of boats with sails.
- 3 Wellingtons is the most likely word, since they are rubber boots designed to keep the water out. Boots are any kind of high-sided footwear. Bootees suggests a kind of ankle-length shoe, fairly lightweight, usually with fur inside for cold weather, often referring to what babies wear. (Wellingtons is usually abbreviated to wellies.)
- 4 Dinghy would be a good word here (see 2 above), though sailing boat would also fit, as it's quite general.

- 5.3 1 INFORMAL 2 CHANCE 3 NOT INTERESTED 4 TEMPORARY

- 5.4 1 education 2 passport 3 length 4 liberty 5 revision 6 brother

- 5.5 exciting, worrying, frightening

Follow-up: Cambridge University Press (CUP) publishes major learners' dictionaries for International English and American English, as well as dictionaries of idioms and phrasal verbs. CUP also publishes bilingual thesauruses (dictionaries organised around meaning instead of alphabetically), for French-English, Italian-English, Greek-English, Spanish-English, Catalan-English and Portuguese-English.

Unit 7

- 7.1 The picture is a good clue to help you understand tortoise. You may recognise the word shell in shelled (as in egg shell, for example). Similarly, your knowledge of long and life together with the context should enable you to work out what longevity and lifespan mean. The whole context of the sentence should help you to work out the meaning of tended. Some of the underlined words may be similar to words in your own language which can be another useful way of working out the meaning of a word you have not seen before. The meanings of the underlined words are provided here for you to check your answers.

Unit 12

Note that when you are looking compound adjectives up in the dictionary you may sometimes find the word listed under its second element rather than its first. Sometimes, in some dictionaries, the word will not be listed at all if the meaning is absolutely clear from an understanding of the two elements.

Notice that the descriptions of Tom and Melissa on the left-hand page are light-hearted and far-fetched! They are not examples of good style as such long lists of adjectives would be inappropriate in a normal text.

Unit 24

24.1 Suggested answers:

- 1 I accept (or more formal: I acknowledge) that you weren't solely to blame, but you must take some responsibility. (Accept and acknowledge are most suitable here since the speaker is prepared to agree with one aspect but wants to go on to make another point to support his/her case.)
- 2 OK, I admit I was wrong, you were right; he is a nice guy. (This seems to be a situation where somebody is accusing someone or trying to get them to say they were wrong. Admit is ideal in this case.)
- 3 The company acknowledges that you have suffered some delay, but we do not accept liability. (Acknowledge is perhaps best here; it is often used in formal, legalistic situations like this because it simply says 'We understand your message, but we do not necessarily accept any blame/responsibility'; admit might suggest the company does accept legal responsibility; accept is also possible though less formal.)
- 4 She accepted/conceded that we had done all we could, but she was still not content. (Concede usually suggests an argument or debate where people might 'give' small points to one another while still holding on to their basic position, and would seem to be a likely choice here; concede here suggests she did not really want to say it.)

Unit 25

25.1 Suggested answers:

- 1 Further to
- 2 In addition to / As well as / Apart from / Besides
- 3 etc. / and so on
- 4 in addition to / as well as / apart from / besides
- 5 Furthermore / Moreover / Likewise

Comments: In (2) and (4), the choice is quite wide, but, depending on which one she chooses for (2), the writer would probably then choose a different one, to avoid repeating herself, for (4).

In (3), etc. is slightly more formal than and so on, and the writer may want to avoid sounding too informal.

In (5), if she wanted to use what's more, the writer would probably write it in full as what is more, so as not to sound too informal. However, what's more / what is more can often sound a little abrupt and argumentative (as if you're trying very hard to convince the reader) and might sound just a bit too strong here.

In (5), furthermore/moreover add her previous experience on to the rest; likewise not only adds the information but suggests it is of equal value to the other experience she has mentioned. Equally would not be suitable here, as it is best used when arguing points and presenting opinions (trying to convince someone of the equal value of a point added on to other points).

Unit 27

- 27.1 'Well, where shall I start? It was last summer and we were just sitting in the garden, sort of doing nothing much. Anyway, I looked up and ... see we have this kind of long wall at the end of the garden, and it's ... like ... a motorway for cats, for instance, that big fat black one you saw, well, that one considers it has a right of way over our vegetable patch, so ... where was I? Yes, I was looking at that wall, you know, day-dreaming as usual, and all of a sudden there was this new cat I'd never seen before, or rather, it wasn't an ordinary cat at all ... I mean, you'll never believe what it was ...'

Comments:

Well is often used to shift the conversation to a different type or topic (here from the ordinary conversation to a story).

Where / How shall I start / begin? ('begin' is much more common in written language than in spoken). This is a very common marker at the beginning of a story or monologue while the speaker is composing his/her thoughts.

Anyway is probably the most common marker in spoken story-telling to divide up the story into its different stages (introduction / main plot / resolution, etc.)

See is often used in informal talk instead of you see, when someone is clarifying or explaining something.

Like, sort of and kind of are often used when the speaker hesitates, or to make something less precise, a little more vague.

Well here is used to focus on an important point.

So is very commonly used to mark the beginning of the next event in a story.

Where was I? is used when we want to come back to the main subject we were talking about after an interruption or diversion into another point or topic.

Yes is often used when we resume what we were talking about; it does not have to be an answer to a question from someone. No is also used in exactly the same way and could have been used here instead of yes.

You know is used here to mean 'you can guess what I was like'.

Or rather is used when you change to a different word or a better / more accurate way of saying what you want to say.

I mean is used when you want to explain something or expand or illustrate what you are saying.

This extract is typical of the number of markers found in everyday informal talk. The speaker is not a 'lazy' or 'bad' speaker; everyone uses markers, even if they are not conscious of it or do not want to admit it! Informal conversation without markers sounds rather odd and strained, and a little too formal.

27.2 Possible answers:

1 A: Are you a football fan? B: Well, I like it; I wouldn't say I was a fan. 2 A: I'll take care of these. B: Right, that's everything. A: Fine, so see you next week. B: Good. That was a very useful meeting. 3 A: It was last Monday. I was coming home from work. I saw this ragged old man approaching me. Anyway, I stopped him ... B: Jim Dibble! A: Hang on! Let me tell you what happened first.	4 A: Which number is yours? B: Let me see ... it's that one here, yes, this one. 5 A: He's looking exhausted. B: Yes, he is. A: Mind you, he has an awful lot of responsibility, so it's hardly surprising. 6 A: What do you mean 'cold'? B: Well, she's not friendly, very distant, so to speak. Last week I gave her a jolly smile and she ... like ... scowled at me. A: Well what do you expect? Look, I've seen the way you smile at people, it sort of puts them off.

Follow-up: If it is difficult or impossible for you to get hold of tape-recordings of natural conversation, there are tapes and transcripts of everyday English conversation in R. Carter and M. McCarthy, Exploring Spoken English (Cambridge University Press, 1997), where you will find a wide range of spoken discourse markers in actual use, with commentaries.

28.4 Sample letter:

Dear Editor,

With reference to the article in your newspaper about the closure of Manton Hospital, I would like to express my strong opposition to the proposal, for the following reasons. Firstly, the nearest other hospital is 50 kilometres away. Secondly, 200 people work at the hospital and they will lose their jobs and the whole region will suffer, that is to say the hospital makes an important contribution to the local economy. Finally, it is the only hospital in the region with a special cancer unit. But leaving aside the economic and medical questions, the hospital is obviously being closed for political reasons, and this is quite wrong.

To sum up, the closure of our hospital would be a disaster both for the people and for the economy of this region.

Yours sincerely,

Before we moved into our new house last year, we had an awful lot of work to do. We wanted to do it up before we moved in. We made an agreement that I would do the painting and wall-papering if Pat would do all the gardening. We probably made a mistake when we decided to do away with an old shed in the garden. It would have come in useful for storing our old paint pots once I had done the decorating. Mind you, the extra space we now have in the garden certainly makes up for not having the storage space. Pat certainly made a great success of the garden. And I did my best at the painting and we always find that both the house and the garden seem to make a very positive impression on our visitors.

94.5 Here are two possibilities for each of the verbs in the unit:

He used to look much younger than he really was but now he's beginning to look his age.
I don't like the look of those black clouds – I think we may have to cancel the picnic.

see

His parents have promised to see him through university – then he'll have to start earning his own living.

It's hard to find your way round this building – I'll see you out.

run

I was very sad when our dog was run over by a car.
She ran up an enormous bill at the dressmaker's.

turn

Please turn down your walkman – I can't concentrate.
I'm very tired. I'm going to turn in soon.

let

Let sleeping dogs lie – you might cause trouble if you try to interfere.

This skirt is too tight – I'll have to let it out.

break

I'm broke – can you lend me five pounds for a few days?

Breaking in new shoes can be a painful experience.

Unit 95

- 95.1
- 1 kip – to sleep / have a sleep
 - 2 a pal – a friend; nowadays, mate is perhaps the most common informal word for 'friend' in British English
 - 3 a chap – a man; chap does have associations of being a middle-class word and perhaps not used so much by young people
 - 4 swot – study hard, e.g. for an exam; you can call someone a swot too
 - 5 ta – thank you, or (slightly less formal) thanks
 - 6 brainy – clever/intelligent; intelligent is the most formal

95.2 Suggested changes:

JIM: Annie, can you lend me five quid?

ANNIE: What for?

JIM: Well, I've got to go and see my mum and dad, and my bike's not working, so I'll have to take/get a cab.

ANNIE: Can't you phone/ring/call them and say you can't come?

JIM: Well, I could, except I want to go because they always have lots of food, and the fridge at our flat (or 'our place', which is a common way of talking about your house/flat), is empty, as usual.

ANNIE: Can't you get the / go by tube?

JIM: Erm ...

ANNIE: Anyway, the answer's no.

For the sake of practice, we have created a dialogue here that probably has more of a concentration of informal words than would occur in reality. Don't forget the advice given at the beginning of the unit about using too much informal language.

- 95.3
- 1 A teenage boy would probably say a date (or 'Fancy going out?'), not an appointment in this situation; appointment is for business contexts; too formal.
 - 2 Offspring, if the parent used it, would be heard as humorous, certainly not the normal word for this situation; children or kids (informal) would be the normal words. Offspring would be suitable for legal contexts, religious language and serious history books / biographies; too formal.
 - 3 As with 2, this would be heard as humorous/mock-serious. Most people would say 'I never drink' or 'I never touch alcohol' in this situation. Alcoholic beverages is very formal/legalistic and you might see it on, e.g. a notice prohibiting drinking in a particular place or the sale of drink at particular times; too formal.
 - 4 This is fine, since within institutions and groups of people who work together, an agreed informal vocabulary develops. In universities, terms like 'lab' are used every day.
 - 5 There is a clash here between the very formal style of the letter ('I should like to enquire ...') and the rather informal 'ad'. 'Advertisements' would be more suitable.

2 to alight
3 a) to regret b) to purchase c) to address
